World Film Locations: Hong Kong Linda Chiu-Han Lai, Kimburley Wing-yee Choi, 2014-05-14 The rapid development of Hong Kong has occasioned the demolition of buildings and landscapes of historic significance but film acts as a repository for memories of lost places vanished vistas and material objects Location shoots in Hong Kong have preserved many disappearing landmarks of the city and the resulting films function as valuable and irreplaceable archives of the city's evolution Far more than a simple collection of movie locations this book delivers a rare glimpse into the history of film production practices in Hong Kong The locations described here are often not the most iconic rather they are the anonymous streets and back alleys used by local film studios in the 1960s and 70s They are the garden cafes with outdoor seating near the Chinese University of Hong Kong where moments of conflict in romantic comedies erupt and dissipate They are the old Kai Tak Airport which channels rage and desire and the tenement housing which splits citizens into greedy landlords and the diligent working class and embodies old day communal values Modern Hong Kong horror films draw their power from the material character of home grown convenient stores shopping arcades and lost mansions found under modern high rises As in the films of Wong Kar wai and Johnnie To readers will drift and dash through the streets of Central to the district's periphery almost recklessly automatically or for the sheer pleasure of roaming The first of its kind in English this book is more than a city guide to Hong Kong through the medium of film it is a unique exploration of relationship between location and place and genre innovations in Hong Kong cinema Steeped in Blood Frances J. Latchford, 2019-08-15 What personal truths reside in biological ties that are absent in adoptive ties And why do we think adoptive and biological ties are essentially different when it comes to understanding who we are At a time when interest in DNA and ancestry is exploding Frances Latchford questions the idea that knowing one's bio genealogy is integral to personal identity or a sense of family and belonging Upending our established values and beliefs about what makes a family Steeped in Blood examines the social and political devaluation of adoptive ties It takes readers on an intellectual journey through accepted wisdom about adoption twins kinship and incest and challenges our naturalistic and individualistic assumptions about identity and the biological ties that bind us sometimes violently to our families Latchford exposes how our desire for bio genealogical knowledge understood as it is by family and adoption experts pathologizes adoptees by posing the biological tie as a necessary condition for normal identity formation Rejecting the idea that a love of the self same is fundamental to family bonds her book is a reaction to the wounds families suffer whenever they dare to revel in their difference A rejoinder to rhetoric that defines adoptees adoptive kin and their family intimacies as inferior and inauthentic Steeped in Blood's view through the lens of critical adoption studies decentres our cultural obsession with the biological family imaginary and makes real the possibility of being family in the absence of blood The 1931-1940: American Film Institute Catalog of Motion Pictures Produced in the United States American Film Institute, 1993 The entire field of film historians awaits the AFI volumes with eagerness Eileen Bowser Museum of Modern Art Film Department Comments on previous volumes The source of last resort for finding socially valuable films that received such scant attention that they seem lost until discovered in the AFI Catalog Thomas Cripps Endlessly absorbing as an excursion into cultural history and national memory Arthur Schlesinger Jr The Therapeutic Narrative Barbara Almond, Richard Almond, 1996-09-30 How do people change Longing for personal growth and transformation is a central theme of our times Psychotherapy seeks to change the dynamics behind people's symptoms and conflicts Writers too are fascinated by this theme and have explored it frequently in their stories and characters In this book Barbara and Richard Almond both psychoanalysts explore a variety of novels that describe internal personal change They discover that there are fascinating parallels between the processes that lead to change in literary characters and the mechanisms observed in psychotherapeutic change From Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice to Frances Hodgson Burnett's The Secret Garden to Anne Tyler's The Accidental Tourist the plot begins with a character struggling with personality limitations A new person appears in the story a bond is formed with the central character In the relationship that follows the two struggle Confrontational and loving interactions lead the protagonist through a process of gradual change The authors delineate a therapeutic narrative the plot of change in both psychotherapy and literature By comparing a variety of novels they elaborate the elements of this therapeutic narrative and draw provocative conclusions about the mechanisms of
