Identity Theory Peter Temple, 2011-01-14

John Anselm is a former Beirut hostage, a foreign correspondent who has been to one war too many. A burnt-out case, he lives in his family's ancestral house in Germany, working for a semi-legal and near-broke surveillance firm and wrestling with his own fractured identity and family history. His intelligence work collides with the lives of Con Niemand, an ex-mercenary and professional survivor, and ambitious London journalist Caroline Wishart. They are caught in a nightmare of violence and intrigue that can only end with the uncovering of long-buried secrets. Temple writes of a shadowy world peopled with intense globetrotting characters who use espionage, double crossings, and political information to gain leverage. In Temple's world, secrets can be worth more than human life.

A Life in Fifty Books

Anthony Cheetham, 2025-03-06

There are good publishers and there are great publishers. And then there's Anthony Cheetham. Richard Dawkins. In November 1966, by way of Mexico City, Eton College, Balliol College Oxford, and a Norwegian raspberry farm, Anthony Cheetham entered the doors of a publishing company for the first time to begin work as a junior editor. Fifty-eight years later, he could look back on a career in which he had shaped the landscape of post-war British publishing to a significant degree, having established such prominent and notably successful companies as Century, Orion, Quercus, and Head of Zeus, and launched imprints from Abacus in 1973 to Zephyr in 2017 that continue to flourish in the third decade of the twenty-first century. Starting with Homer's Odyssey and ending with works by the evolutionary biologist Richard Dawkins and the German historian Ernst Kantorowicz, Anthony Cheetham has selected fifty books as mileposts with which to map the course of his long and productive career. Many of these are titles that he himself published: Dune, The Thorn Birds, A Suitable Boy, Meetings with Remarkable Trees, The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo; some are books he wished he had published: Stephen Hawking's A Brief History of Time; others are simply masterworks that left an indelible mark on him: The Lord of the Rings, War and Peace.

A Life in Fifty Books is an affectionate and revelatory account of a publishing life remarkable for its longevity, its entrepreneurial energy, and for the breadth and catholicity of its output, which runs the gamut of seriousness from academically distinguished works of history, science, and philosophy to Confessions of a Window Cleaner. Full of encounters with remarkable individuals as well as extraordinary books and embellished with beautiful photographs of book jackets from the 1950s to the present day, A Life in Fifty Books is an engagingly written survey of an industry which, in its author's well-chosen words, offers its practitioners a passport to roam across the entire spectrum of human experience.
