Gould's St. Louis Red-blue Book ,1919 Rugged Free Energy Landscapes Wolfhard Janke,2007-12-10 This volume on spin glasses structural glasses and biological macromolecules collects pedagogically written lecture notes of internationally renowned perts from eight countries who work on di erent physical problems but ploy similar theoretical concepts and computational methods The research into at rst sight quite di erent physical phenomena therefore faces related problems whose origin can be traced back to the di culties of numerical simulations of systems with rugged free energy landscapes Many of the original publications presuppose quite specialized common knowledge usually readily accessible only to the experts in each of these fields Moreover they are typically published in quite different sets of scientific journals The main objective of these Lecture Notes is therefore to provide the necessary background material in a coherent fashion and thereby to initialize knowledge transfer of advanced methodologies across the boundaries of the disciplines It can be anticipated that future successful computer simulation studies of static and dynamic properties of the three systems considered here as well as the further development of improved numerical algorithms will greatly profit from an interaction among researchers in these different fields More specifically the merits and drawbacks of the various variants of generalized ensemble methods as employed in computational studies of glassy systems and biomolecules as well as the complicated interplay of different algorithms in combined methods are discussed from rather different viewpoints in this volume
