Quantification of Non-point Source Nutrient Pollution, Impacts Along the Carson River Mary Horvath, 1996 Nutrient Pollution of Coastal Rivers, Bays, and Seas ,2007 Nutrient Pollution United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Environment and Public Works. Subcommittee on Water and Wildlife, 2017 Comparative Institutional and Policy Analysis of Nonpoint Source Agricultural Nutrient Pollution in the Chesapeake Bay Jennifer M. Egan, 2016

Reducing excess nitrogen and phosphorous nutrient runoff into ground and surface waters is a global concern Jacobs 2013 More than two decades of effort in the United States Chesapeake Bay region to reduce nutrient excess has seen slow progress U S EPA 2010 The externality of nutrient excess has spurred environmental groups to seek rights they view as unallocated in resolution processes This dissertation presents several ideas regarding nutrient externality The second chapter argues that the judicial process is poorly positioned to resolve this conflict relative to other resolution processes and other processes would be more likely for environmental groups to achieve their goal of improving environmental quality The third chapter addresses the design and implementation of effective policy for nutrient reduction from nonpoint source agriculture Nutrient management planning and nutrient trading requirements are comparatively analyzed in Maryland Pennsylvania and Virginia to determine factors in policy design that affect policy outputs The results indicate that an existing institutional structure utilizing incentive based nutrient management planning may be more compatible with nutrient trading policies and in turn may reduce the cost of monitoring Although monitoring cost increase with nutrient trading the existing policy design in Virginia may provide capacity to lower monitoring cost The fourth chapter analyzes payment for environmental services PES and nutrient trading with a novel approach A nutrient index combines PES for nitrogen and phosphorous reduction and a sensitivity analysis into a single payment to elicit potential costs of supply in the nutrient market This nutrient index is the first of its kind to distinguish payments made for multiple environmental services and to explore the impact on policy effectiveness with overlapping nutrient reduction policies PES and nutrient trading policies pay for the same service yet PES as demonstrated in the results of this study has potential to increase prices of nutrient credits establish a price floor or collapse the nutrient trading market altogether In addition the existence of the trading market has potential to reduce the effectiveness of existing PES which already suffers from ineffective payment for nutrient services Nutrient Pollution from Agricultural Production Arlene Walters, 2016

Nutrients are elements essential to plant and animal growth In agricultural production the focus generally rests on the three primary macronutrients nitrogen N phosphorus P and potassium K because of their relative abundance in plants As crops grow and are harvested they gradually remove the existing nutrients from the soil and over time will require additional nutrients to maintain or increase crop yield When nutrients are added in excess of the plants ability to utilize them there is an increased risk that the nutrients will enter the surrounding environment water or air and create environmental problems The nutrients of primary environmental concern in agriculture are nitrogen and phosphorus This book discusses the types and sources of nutrient pollution from agricultural production possible environmental effects of nutrient pollution examples of current control measures the federal response to excess nutrients including regulatory and incentive based programs and future considerations for nutrient management policy at the federal level Nutrient Cycling in Terrestrial Ecosystems A.
