The Africa Competitiveness Report 2007:

Africa Development Indicators 2007 World Bank,2008 The world s demand for food is expected to double within the next 50 years while the natural resources that sustain agriculture will become increasingly scarce degraded and vulnerable to the effects of climate change In many poor countries agriculture accounts for at least 40 percent of GDP and 80 percent of employment At the same time about 70 percent of the world s poor live in rural areas and most depend on agriculture for their livelihoods World Development Report 2008 seeks to assess where when and how agriculture can be an effective instrument for economic development especially development that favors the poor It examines several broad questions How has agriculture changed in developing countries in the past 20 years What are the important new challenges and opportunities for agriculture Which new sources of agricultural growth can be captured cost effectively in particular in poor countries with large agricultural sectors as in Africa How can agricultural growth be made more effective for poverty reduction How can governments facilitate the transition of large populations out of agriculture without simply transferring the burden of rural poverty to urban areas How can the natural resource endowment for agriculture be protected How can agriculture s negative environmental effects be contained This year s report marks the 30th year the World Bank has been publishing the World Development Report

Humanitarian Response Index 2008 DARA (Development Assistance Research Associates),2016-01-18 The purpose of this annual report is to develop an index of good humanitarian donorship that will measure donors effectiveness against their commitment to the Principles and Good Practise of Humanitarian Donorship The index is intended to help the international donor community to better understand its strengths and weaknesses in order to improve the efficiency and quality of its donor activities and initiatives The index is also expected to raise awareness about the increasingly important role of humanitarian action and associated good practices beyond its current core constituencies We believe that this report offers significant potential to improve the quality of humanitarian aid benefiting those most affected by both man made and natural disasters

Global Monitoring Report 2008 World Bank,2008-04-14 Global Monitoring Report 2008 the fifth in an annual series is essential reading for those who wish to follow the global development agenda and debate in 2008 The year marks the midpoint toward the 2015 deadline for achieving the Millennium Development Goals MDGs It is also an important year to work toward a consensus on how the world is going to respond to the challenge of climate change building on the foundation laid at the Bali climate change conference in December 2007 The report spans this agenda It provides a comprehensive assessment of progress toward the MDGs and related policies and actions It addresses the challenge of climate change and environmental sustainability and assesses its implications for development The report's assessment of MDGs at midpoint presents a mixed picture one of both significant progress and formidable challenges The first MDG reducing extreme poverty by half is likely to be met at the global level thanks to a remarkable surge in global economic growth over the past decade But on current trends the human development MDGs are unlikely to be met Prospects are gravest for the goals of reducing child and maternal mortality but shortfalls are also likely in the primary school completion nutrition and sanitation MDGs The potential effects of climate change compound the challenge of achieving the development goals and sustaining progress The report's messages are clear urgent action is needed to help the world get back on track to achieve the MDGs and urgent action is also needed to combat climate change that threatens the well being of all countries but particularly of poor countries and poor people The goals of development and environmental sustainability are closely related and the paths to those goals have important synergies Africa's Competitiveness in the Global Economy Ifedapo

Africa in World Politics John W Harbeson,Donald Rothchild,2018-04-24 The sixth edition of Africa in World Politics focuses on challenges African states face in constructing viable political economies in contexts both of familiar domestic challenges and an unprecedented mix of engagements opportunities and threats emanating from a turbulent and rapidly changing international order This text including new chapters on Nigeria and the influence of party politics on economic development remains an invaluable resource for students of African politics seeking to navigate the continent s complex political and economic landscapes Revised chapters consider both the extent and the limits of continued healthy growth rates in many countries the impacts of investments by China and other BRICS countries plateaus and some reversals in progress on human rights and democratization dimensions of chronic state weakness deepened by insurgencies including some that are connected to Al Qaeda and the Islamic State and peacebuilding efforts struggling to uphold responsible sovereignty in the Sudans the Great Lakes region and elsewhere

Trade and Industrial Development in Africa Moyo, Theresa,2015-03-02 This book revisits the perennial challenge that scholars economists and politicians have been grappling with since the 1960s Development in this book has been defined in a context that projects it as a multidimensional and complex process which seeks to enhance the human social economic and cultural welfare of the people This book calls for a rethinking of trade and industry for Africa s development It uses data drawn from national development plans and strategies and trade and industry issues have been prioritized at the continental level in key policy documents On the whole Africa s industry and trade performance have been poor in spite of national regional and continental plans The contributors to this volume propose some alternative strategies and policies which are necessary for trade and industry to grow and to contribute to the well being of Africa s people It calls for a developmental trade and industry policy which fundamentally must be people centred African states should invest time energy and resources to develop policies which will take into consideration African realities The different contributors are aware that Africa has experienced strong economic growth in the recent past but this growth has largely been due to a strong demand for Africa s primary commodity exports It has also been a result of increases in productivity and domestic investment and remittances from Africans living in the Diaspora It is important to note that despite this unprecedented growth performance the impact of trade and industry on development has been limited The book argues that a structural transformation of Africa s economies is inevitable if Africa is to achieve the shift from the dominant paradigm of production and export of primary goods The various contributors to this book agree that there is need to rethink policy and strategy in order to achieve industrial development in Africa There is no unique solution or answer that can fit all situations as African countries are not the same While Africa can draw lessons from other regions which have successfully industrialized this book argues that policies and strategies will have to be adapted to country specific situations and circumstances

Globalisation and Higher Education in the Arab Gulf States Gari Donn, Yayha Al Manthri, 2010-05-10 In our knowledge based world the societies that prosper are the ones that generate knowledge through research through the interwoven relationship between the academe and funded research bodies and with industry They are the new centre It is strange indeed to think of the countries of the Arab Gulf States as the periphery But as the authors of this book argue very persuasively by importing a baroque arsenal of increasingly sophisticated and costly educational programmes the Arab Gulf States consume other countries knowledge and products all of which are of declining utility and sustainability Whilst universities contribute to the culture and political life of modern society the authors ask where in the Arab Gulf States is there capacity building knowledge generation and the culture of imaginative ideas that lie at the root of any civilisation By following a magistracy on a global journey through regions nations and into institutions their answers are intended to inform and to urge the Arab Gulf region into promoting education for its own self determination and even its survival

Rural Young Women, Education, and Socio-Spatial Mobility Wendy Geller, 2015-10-08 Much of the literature on globalization has centered on the large macro level forces that influence the ways ideas people and various forms of capital move around the world From this vantage point discussions about the progressive feminization of migration in particular the feminization of out migration from rural areas indicate an intriguing trend Simultaneously the local experience of global forces is an important way of exploring how macro level processes are navigated by social actors on the ground This provides added texture to our understanding of why and how people make decisions about their lives within an increasingly interconnected social economic and political environment This volume explores whether concurrent patterns in identity development social relations and youth behaviors on the micro level might help explain similarities observable at the macro level Through a triangulated approach that balances between statistical backdrops extant quantitative research and in depth qualitative interviews this book theorizes about shifts in gender normativity efforts towards social mobility and the possible effects of an increasingly globalized society To do this it examines the decision making processes employed by high achieving young women from rural areas in Vermont and Leinster Ireland as they figured out who they wanted to become as adults and where they wanted to be those people Remaining mindful of structural constraints and using the lens of the psychic landscape Reay 2005 to view class as a reflexive practice this book peers into the ways certain types of identity evident among blue collar students seem to be carving out some potential for social and spatial mobility amidst both global and local trends
