James Champlin Fernald, 1907 The Pain of Unbelonging, 2007-01-01 Beyond the obvious and enduring socio economic ravages it unleashed on indigenous cultures white settler colonization in Australasia also inflicted profound damage on the collective psyche of both of the communities that inhabited the contested space of the colonial world The acute sense of alienation that colonization initially provoked in the colonized and colonizing populations of Australia and New Zealand has recent studies indicate developed into an endemic existential pathology Evidence of the psychological fallout from the trauma of geographical deracination cultural disorientation and ontological destabilization can be found not only in the state of anomie and self destructive patterns of behaviour that now characterize the lives of indigenous Australian and Maori peoples but also in the perpetually faltering identity discourse and cultural rootlessness of the present descendants of the countries Anglo Celtic settlers It is with the literary expression of this persistent condition of alienation that the essays gathered in the present volume are concerned Covering a heterogeneous selection of contemporary Australasian literature what these critical studies convincingly demonstrate is that more than two hundred years after the process of colonisation was set in motion the experience that Germaine Greer has dubbed the pain of unbelonging continues unabated constituting a dominant thematic concern in the writing produced today by Australian and New Zealand authors The Sense of Suffering: Constructions of Physical

Decker, 2017-07-05 Bodies mangled limbs broken skin flayed blood spilled from paintings to prints to small sculptures the art of the late Middle Ages and early modern period gave rise to disturbing scenes of violence Many of these torture scenes recall Christ s Passion and its aftermath but the martyrdoms of saints stories of justice visited on the wicked and broadsheet reports of the atrocities of war provided fertile ground for scenes of the body s desecration Contributors to this volume interpret pain suffering and the desecration of the human form not simply as the passing fancies of a cadre of proto sadists but also as serving larger social functions within European society Taking advantage of the frameworks established by scholars such as Samuel Edgerton Mitchell Merback and Elaine Scarry to name but a few Death Torture and the Broken Body in European Art 1300 1650 provides an intriguing set of lenses through which to view such imagery and locate it within its wider social political and devotional contexts Though the art works discussed are centuries old the topics of the essays resonate today as twenty first century Western society is still absorbed in thorny debates about the ethics and consequences of the use of force coercion including torture and execution and about whether it is ever fully acceptable to write social norms on the bodies of those who will not conform De Arte Graphica (Paris, 1668) Charles-Alphonse Dufresnoy, 2005 Edition comment e de ce po me latin de 549 vers sur l art de la peinture qui connut un succ s consid rable aux XVIIe et XVIIIe si cles Aspects of death and correlated aspects of life in art, epigram, and poetry Frederick Parkes Weber, 1918 Ethics and Images of Pain Asbjørn Grønstad, Henrik Gustafsson, 2012 Few phenomena are as formative of our experience of the visual world as displays of suffering But what does it mean to have an ethical experience of disturbing or traumatizing images What kind of ethical proposition does an image of pain mobilize How may the spectator learn from and make use of the painful image as a source of ethical reflection Engaging with a wide range of visual media from painting theatre and sculpture to photography film and video this interdisciplinary collection of essays by leading and emerging scholars of visual culture offers a reappraisal of the increasingly complex relationship between images of pain and the ethics of viewing Ethics and Images of Pain reconsiders the persistent and ever pertinent nexus of aesthetics and ethics the role of painful images as generators of unpredictable forms of affect the moral transformation of spectatorship the ambivalence of the witness and the representation of affliction as a fundamental form of our shared scopic experience The instructive and illuminating essays in the collection introduce a phenomenological context in which to make sense of our current ecology of excruciating images one that accentuates notions of responsibility empathy and imagination Contributors trace the images of pain across a miscellany of case studies and amongst the topics addressed are the work of artists as disparate as Doris Salcedo Anselm Kiefer and Bendik Riis photographs from Abu Ghraib and Rwanda Hollywood war films and animated documentaries performances of self immolations and incidents of police brutality captured on mobile phones
