World Health Org Report On Poverty:

The World Health Organization (WHO) Kelley Lee, 2008-08-21 The World Health Organization WHO as the United Nations specialized agency for health has been at the centre of international health cooperation for over sixty years With origins dating from the nineteenth century WHO's mandate is the attainment by all people of the highest possible level of health The huge challenge of fulfilling this objective has not only required high level technical skills but has led the organization to engage with a broad range of political and economic interests WHO has enjoyed many high profile successes such as the global eradication of smallpox and SARS and ongoing campaigns against polio and other diseases On other issues such as essential drugs tobacco control and diet and nutrition efforts to tackle the broader determinants of health has brought the organization into contact with issues such as globalization poverty social justice and human rights Kelley Lee analyzes the WHO's role in international cooperation examining its changing structures key programmes and individuals Of particular focus are the challenges WHO has faced in recent years given the emergence of other global health initiatives and how WHO has sought to remain effective as the world's health conscience within an increasingly complex global context

Global Political Economy and the Wealth of Nations Phillip Anthony O'Hara, 2004 Documents the major processes performance institutions problems and policies associated with global political economy This book presents an analysis of the changing distribution and production of wealth throughout the world the global technological revolution and a special study of Asia and Eastern Europe in the world system World Health Organization Gian Luca Burci, Claude-Henri Vignes, 2004-01-01 The World Health Organization WHO was established in 1946 as an essential step in the construction of a postwar system of international cooperation The authors a former legal counsel of WHO and senior official of WHO's legal office have written a thorough and systematic review of WHO in its changing historical and political context aiming in particular at practitioners and scholars without a specific medical background Inheriting the World Bruce Allan Gordon, Richard Mackay, Eva Rehfuess, World Health Organization, 2004 Highly commended in the Public Health Category of the British Medical Association Book Competition 2005 Every child has the right to live in a healthy supportive environment an environment that encourages growth and development and protects from disease Many of the world's children however are exposed to hazards in the very places that should be safest the home school and community Considering that their growing bodies are particularly sensitive to environmental threats the final burden of childhood disease is substantial Every year more than three million children die due to unhealthy environments This atlas articulates where and why more than three million children die every year due to unhealthy environments It tackles issues as diverse as the devastating and largely unknown impact of indoor air pollution the unfashionable tragedy of sanitation and complex emerging issues like climate change Full color maps and graphics clearly demonstrate the threats that children face everywhere and underscore the impact of poverty on children's health While this crisis cannot be ignored and demands urgent action success stories such as the Montreal Protocol show a way forward for the world to make sure that our children will inherit a safer planet and a brighter future

The World Health Organization between North and South Nitsan

Chorev, 2012-05-01 Since 1948 the World Health Organization WHO has launched numerous programs aimed at improving health conditions around the globe ranging from efforts to eradicate smallpox to education programs about the health risks of smoking In setting global health priorities and carrying out initiatives the WHO bureaucracy has faced the challenge of reconciling the preferences of a small minority of wealthy nations who fund the organization with the demands of poorer member countries who hold the majority of votes In The World Health Organization between North and South Nitsan Chorev shows how the WHO bureaucracy has succeeded not only in avoiding having its agenda co-opted by either coalition of member states but also in reaching a consensus that fit the bureaucracy's own principles and interests Chorev assesses the response of the WHO bureaucracy to member state pressure in two particularly contentious moments when during the 1970s and early 1980s developing countries forcefully called for a more equal international economic order and when in the 1990s the United States and other wealthy countries demanded international organizations adopt neoliberal economic reforms In analyzing these two periods Chorev demonstrates how strategic maneuvering made it possible for a vulnerable bureaucracy to preserve a relatively autonomous agenda promote a consistent set of values and protect its interests in the face of challenges from developing and developed countries alike
