

The background is a dark, atmospheric landscape painting. On the left, a tall, blue, cylindrical structure, possibly a lighthouse or a tower, stands on a rocky outcrop. A rainbow is visible in the sky, arching over the landscape. The foreground is dark and reflective, showing the silhouettes of trees and the structure. The overall mood is mysterious and ethereal.

It is Rabelasian in some respects but more down to earth and melancholy. Phil Baker in The Sunday Times. It is the rarest kind of monument to life and literature for it has survived almost three centuries and will survive many more. It is a story of the most basic kind of grandeur: gaudy, wild, raw, amusing, rollicking and ragged, boiling with life on intimate terms with death and evil but in the end contrite and fully tired of a world wasting itself in blood, pillage and lust but immortal in the miserable splendour of its sins. Thomas Mann La Madre, Grazia Deledda, 1987 Sparrow. Giovanni Verga, 2002. Italy has a long history of short story writing going back to Boccaccio d. 1375 and most of Italy's major writers produced collections of novelle. One of the greatest exponents is Giovanni Verga. The themes of his major novels are to be found in his short stories. Verga embraced verismo, the Italian form of French naturalism where authorial comment and description is at a minimum. He creates an atmosphere and emotions in his writing which transcend the world of his characters, mainly Sicilian fishermen and peasants and which give it a lyrical, almost epic character. Although Verga writes about a small, enclosed world, his work has universal appeal, touching the heart without lecturing or sentimentalising. This volume offers a wider and more varied selection of Verga's prose than has been published in English before and has been taken from four collections published between 1876 and 1887.
