A New Cold War? Nicholas Ross Smith, 2019-06-29 This book examines the contention that current US Russia relations have descended into a New Cold War It examines four key dimensions of the original Cold War the structural the ideological the psychological and the technological and argues that the current US Russia relationship bears little resemblance to the Cold War Presently the international system is transitioning towards multipolarity with Russia a declining power while current ideological differences and threat perceptions are neither as rigid nor as bleak as they once were Ultimately when the four dimensions of analysis are weighed in unison this work argues that the claim of a New Cold War is a hyperbolic assessment of US Russia relations Toward a Cultural History of the Cold War in Turkey Fulvio Bertuccelli, 2024-12-19 Turkey's position as the only Muslim majority member of NATO coupled with its pivotal role in pursuing Western interests in the Middle East and Western Europe has attracted significant scholarly attention particularly in the fields of diplomatic and international relations history In contrast the cultural and ideological dimensions of the Cold War have begun to be studied systematically only in recent years In this light the book is an attempt to present to an international audience some tassels of the complex mosaic of Turkey's Cold War by focusing on its cultural and ideological dimensions Adopting a variety of disciplinary approaches the essays in this collection examine the interconnections between politics and culture the anti communist intellectual landscape and the role of cultural production and the media questioning how the global dynamics of the Cold War affected political cultural and social change in Turkey

Sangjoon Lee, 2020-12-15 Cinema and the Cultural Cold War explores the ways in which postwar Asian cinema was shaped by transnational collaborations and competitions between newly independent and colonial states at the height of Cold War politics Sangjoon Lee adopts a simultaneously global and regional approach when analyzing the region's film cultures and industries New economic conditions in the Asian region and shared postwar experiences among the early cinema entrepreneurs were influenced by Cold War politics US cultural diplomacy and intensified cultural flows during the 1950s and 1960s By taking a closer look at the cultural realities of this tumultuous period Lee comprehensively reconstructs Asian film history in light of the international relationships forged broken and re established as the influence of the non aligned movement grew across the Cold War Lee elucidates how motion picture executives creative personnel policy makers and intellectuals in East and Southeast Asia aspired to industrialize their Hollywood inspired system in order to expand the market and raise the competitiveness of their cultural products They did this by forming the Federation of Motion Picture Producers in Asia co hosting the Asian Film Festival and co producing films Cinema and the Cultural Cold War demonstrates that the emergence of the first intensive postwar film producers network in Asia was in large part the offspring of Cold War cultural politics and the product of American hegemony Film festivals that took place in cities as diverse as Tokyo Singapore Hong Kong and Kuala Lumpur were annual showcases of cinematic talent as well as opportunities for the Central Intelligence Agency to establish and maintain cultural political and institutional linkages between the United States and Asia during the Cold War Cinema and the Cultural Cold War reanimates this almost forgotten history of cinema and the film industry in Asia
