L. Van Den Herik,2020-04-28 All worldviews require a leap of faith but not all leaps of faith are the same A one stop shop for the rational evidence for

Christianity The Shortest Leap presents the scientific historical biblical and explanatory underpinnings of the Christian faith demonstrating that faith in Jesus requires the shortest leap In addition to providing proactive evidence for Christianity The Shortest Leap responds to the numerous shots fired at biblical Christianity by atheists critics of Christianity and other skeptics The Shortest Leap answers a wide range of difficult questions including Is the Bible consistent with the findings of cutting edge secular science Was there really a man named Jesus or is he just a myth And even if he did exist aren t the events of Jesus life and his teachings as described in the New Testament merely fabrications of the earliest Christians Does the historical evidence support the claim that Jesus rose from the dead To understand who Jesus really was why shouldn t we consider other documents outside the Bible such as the Gnostic gospels Why were some documents excluded from the New Testament Did Jesus really claim to be God or did the earliest Christians just want to believe that Is the Old Testament still relevant Does it really point to Jesus hundreds to thousands of years before he lived How does the salvation by grace of Christianity differ from the salvation by works of all other religions Why can t I just believe in the Jesus that I like the best How can I be sure I have eternal life

The National Interest in Question Christopher Hill,2013-08-22 For three decades multiculturalism has been the focus of fierce debates At the same time Europeans have worried at the national level and at that of the European Union about how to relate to a world in which their influence has been steadily reducing But the two discussions on society and on foreign policy have rarely intersected The events of 11 September 2001 did shock the citizens of Western countries into an awareness that international politics could literally explode onto their home streets and generated fear and suspicion about and among minority groups But the excessive focus on terrorism and on Islam which followed hardly did justice to the deeper processes of transnationally induced change which were at work This book attempts to go beyond the emotive political debate to show how foreign policy and domestic society have been becoming more entangled with each other for some time It focuses on the more established Member States of the European Union and the varying paths which they have taken in coping with the new domestic environment fostered by increased migration ethnocultural diversity and transnational relations It investigates the contrasting approaches taken by the European states to what is loosely called multiculturalism and analyses their impact on the interplay between foreign policy and domestic society something which is now a structural feature of political life It concludes with the argument that since domestic society is now taking on some of the diversity associated with international relations governments can no longer assume a national consensus in their relations with the outside world let alone the steady homogenisation of world society 1
