Human Frailties Ronald J. Burke,Suzy Fox,2016-05-13 Every day we hear stories about the consequences of human frailties for individuals their families and friends and their organizations Some of these stories are about alcohol and drug addiction and other harmful lifestyle choices but human frailty also leads to all kinds of unethical and illegal behaviour Individuals are convicted of bribery and corruption price fixing theft and fraud sexual harassment and abuse of authority Politicians fiddle their expenses sports people cheat and fix matches and school and university students and teachers cheat to enhance exam results Studies have shown that business students cheat more than others and efforts to teach ethical behaviour in business schools make little difference The media who bring us stories of others frailties themselves engage in unethical and illegal conduct in pursuit of an edge over their rivals The contributions to this latest addition to Gower s Psychological and Behavioural Aspects of Risk Series place the spotlight on individuals their behavioural choices and the consequences that follow for theirs and others lives and careers The conclusion is that people do have choices and options and that whilst there are no easy or quick fixes in addressing self limiting behaviours successful avoidance of the worst outcomes can be achieved This book provides guidance on the practical steps that need to be taken in order to gain a sense of proportion of what is important and of how we are doing if we are to address our frailties and stop making unethical choices Early social experience: Impact on early and later social-cognitive development Caroline Junge,Marlene Meyer,Sarah A. civic engagement to what the editors call democratic engagement The norms of democratic engagement are determined by values such as inclusiveness collaboration participation task sharing and reciprocity in public problem solving and an equality of respect for the knowledge and experience that everyone contributes to education knowledge generation and community building This book shrewdly rethinks the culture of higher education Your Statistical Consultant Rae R. ### Genomic “dark matter”: implications for understanding human disease mechanisms, diagnostics, and cures

Philipp Kapranov, The vast majority of the human genome has been historically ignored from the point of view of molecular mechanisms of disease diagnostics and potential therapeutic targets The predominant focus of disease research has traditionally been placed on the protein coding regions of the human genome which account for only 4 5% of its total sequence complexity This bias has an obvious underlying reason protein coding regions encode a crucial class of molecules in a cell whose function and importance are well established Furthermore proteins are the predominant class of cellular molecules against which effective therapeutics can be designed This bias pervades the design of analytical tools made to measure DNA DNA protein interactions as well as procedures used to measure and annotate transcriptome expression Microarrays for example are often biased to the regions of genome known to encode exons or promoters of protein coding mRNAs Other aspects of our approach towards measuring expression of RNAs such as the typical choice of polyA RNA selection enriched in mRNAs for next generation sequencing also reinforces this bias In summary the 2 3% of the genome and RNAs made from it has dominated the conceptual thinking of academic and medical communities as well as industries that make devices that measure nucleic acids for research or diagnostic purposes and the pharmaceutical industry However during the last decade a tide of data has gained sufficient momentum to suggest that the cell actually uses the remaining 97 98% of the genome to produce stable RNAs the so called dark matter RNA The first reports to suggest this were based on tiling array technology and sequencing of ESTs which while powerful had their limitations tiling arrays could not estimate the relative mass of the RNAs produced from the non protein coding regions in a cell and the EST sequencing methods were not deep enough The advent of next generation sequencing in particular single molecule sequencing has allowed us not only confirm the previous observations but also for the first time to estimate not only from where but also how much non exonic

RNA is produced Its fraction of the total transcriptome is quite significant up to 2/3 of all RNA made in a human cell http www biomedcentral com 1741 7007 8 149 Moreover the non exonic RNAs are differentially expressed in disease for example between the primary tumors and metastatic derivatives We believe that the logical next step from these observations is to ask three questions perhaps some of the most important questions of our time in biomedical science 1 do dark matter RNAs underlie mechanisms of human disease 2 Can they be used for diagnostics and 3 Can they be used as targets for therapeutics We thus would like to propose a Research Topic in the Frontiers in Genetics Frontiers in Non Coding RNAs that is specifically dedicated to publishing manuscripts addressing these three questions Advanced Methods in Family Therapy Research Richard B Miller, Lee N. Johnson, 2013-12-17 Research is vital in moving the field of family therapy forward but the myriad of possibilities inherent in working with systems and individuals can overwhelm even the most seasoned researcher Advanced Methods in Family Therapy Research is the best resource to address the day to day questions that researchers have as they investigate couples and families and the best source for learning long term theory and methodology The contributors of this volume share their wisdom on a wide variety of topics including validity concerns measuring interpersonal process and relational change dyadic data analysis demonstrated through a sample research study mixed methods studies and recruitment and retention The volume contains one of the most detailed descriptions of data collections and covers interviewing using questionnaires and observing brain activity Also addressed are suggestions to meaningfully reduce cultural bias to conduct ethical research and in the Health Services Research chapter to examine interventions for clients in various income brackets A separate ground breaking chapter also addresses psychophysiological research in a couple and family therapeutic context As an added benefit readers will learn how to become informed consumers of journal articles and studies how to produce quality publishable research and how to write fundable grant proposals Each chapter provides a clear and detailed guide for students researchers and professionals and as a whole Advanced Methods in Family Therapy Research advances the field by teaching readers how to provide evidence that marriage and family therapy not only relieves symptoms but also effects behavioral change in all family members Handbook of Research on Methods and Techniques for Studying Virtual Communities: Paradigms and Phenomena Daniel, Ben Kei, 2010-11-30 This book satisfies the need for methodological consideration and tools for data collection analysis and presentation in virtual communities covering studies on various types of virtual communities making this reference a comprehensive source of research for those in the social sciences and humanities Provided by publisher Electronic Lexicography Sylviane Granger, Magali Paquot, 2012-10-25 Professional and academic lexicographers present and discuss innovations ideas and developments in all aspects of electronic lexicography including dictionary writing systems and the integration of corpora for every kind of dictionary in every format The Molecular Pathology of Cognitive Decline: Focus on Metals Paul A. Adlard, Roger Chung, 2016-02-02 In the past two decades there have been significant advances made in understanding the cellular and molecular alterations that occur with brain ageing as well as with our understanding of age related brain diseases Ageing is associated with a mid life decline in many cognitive domains eg Attention working memory episodic memory that progresses with advancing age and which may be potentiated by a variety of diseases However despite the breadth of attempts to explain it the underlying basis for age related memory impairment remains poorly understood Both normal and pathological ageing as in age related neurodegenerative disorders such as Alzheimer s disease may be associated with overlapping and increased levels of abnormal pathology and this may be a potential mediator of cognitive decline in both populations An emerging hypothesis in this field is that metal ion dys homeostasis may represent a primary unifying mechanism to explain age and disease associated memory impairment either indirectly via an effect on disease pathogenesis or by a direct effect on signaling pathways relevant to learning and memory There remains a concerted worldwide effort to deliver an effective therapeutic treatment for cognitive decline associated with ageing and or disease which is currently an unmet need There have been numerous clinical trials conducted specifically testing drugs to prevent cognitive decline and progression to dementia but to date the results have been less than impressive highlighting the urgent need for a greater understanding of the neurobiological basis of memory impairment in ageing and disease which can then drive the search for effective therapeutics
