is a detective novel by British writer Agatha Christie. It was written in the middle of the First World War in 1916 and first published by John Lane in the United States in October 1920¹ and in the United Kingdom by The Bodley Head John Lane's UK company on 21 January 1921². Styles was Christie's first published novel. It introduced Hercule Poirot, Inspector later Chief Inspector Japp, and Arthur Hastings³. Poirot, a Belgian refugee of the Great War, is settling in England near the home of Emily Inglethorpe, who helped him to his new life. His friend Hastings arrives as a guest at her home. When the woman is killed, Poirot uses his detective skills to solve the mystery. The book includes maps of the house, the murder scene, and a drawing of a fragment of a will. The true first publication of the novel was as a weekly serial in The Times, including the maps of the house and other illustrations included in the book. This novel was one of the first ten books published by Penguin Books when it began in 1935.

The Mysterious Affair at Styles Annotated And Illustrated Book Agatha Christie, 2020-11-09. The book begins in Styles Court, located in Essex, United Kingdom. The manor has multiple people living on it, including Emily Inglethorpe, the elderly owner of the estate. When the rest of the people living there wake up in the morning, they find that Emily has died, and it appears that she was poisoned. In one of Christie's Hercule Poirot novels, the famous detective finds out that Emily was of great wealth, providing a very likely motive for murder. Suspects included Alfred Inglethorpe, a younger man who Emily just married, the Cavendish family, who include Emily's stepchildren, and Cynthia and Evelyn, both of whom were friends of Emily. John Cavendish, according to Emily's will, is the one who will receive the majority stake in the manor, so at first this points the suspecting finger at him. However, it is said that on the day of the murder, Emily had argued with John and Alfred and changed her will. No one can find any evidence that such a newly created will even exists.

One morning at Styles Court an Essex country manor its household wake to the discovery that the owner elderly Emily Inglethorp has died She had been poisoned with strychnine Arthur Hastings a soldier from the Western Front staying there as a guest on his sick leave ventures out to the nearby village of Styles St Mary to enlist help from his friend staying there Hercule Poirot Poirot learns that Emily was a woman of wealth upon the death of her previous husband Mr Cavendish she inherited from him both the manor and a large portion of his income Her household includes her husband Alfred Inglethorp a younger man she recently married her stepsons from her first husband s previous marriage John and Lawrence Cavendish John s wife Mary Cavendish Cynthia Murdoch the daughter of a deceased friend of the family and Evelyn Howard Emily s companion Poirot learns that per Emily s will John is the vested remainderman of the manor he inherits the property from her per his father's will. However, the money she inherited would be distributed according to her own will, which she changed at least once per year. Her most recent will favours Alfred, who will inherit her fortune. On the day of the murder, Emily had been arguing with someone suspected to be either Alfred or John. She had been quite distressed after this and apparently made a new will; no one can find any evidence that it exists. Alfred left the manor early that evening and stayed overnight in the village. Meanwhile, Emily ate little at dinner and retired early to her room, taking her document case with her. When her body was found, the case had been forced open and a document removed. Nobody can explain how or when the poison was administered to her.
