The United Nations World Water Development Report 3 World Water Assessment Programme, 2012-05-23 The United Nations World Water Development Report published every three years is a comprehensive review providing an authoritative picture of the state of the world's freshwater resources. It offers best practices as well as in-depth theoretical analyses to help stimulate ideas and actions for better stewardship in the water sector. It is the only report of its kind resulting from the collaboration and contributions of the 26 UN agencies commissions, program funds, secretariats and conventions that have a significant role in addressing global water concerns. The news media are full of talk of crises in climate change, energy and food and troubled financial markets. These crises are linked to each other and to water resources management. Unresolved, they may lead to increasing political insecurity and conflict. Water is required to meet our fundamental needs and rising living standards and to sustain our planet's fragile ecosystems. Pressures on the resource come from a growing and mobile population, social and cultural change, economic development and technological change. Adding complexity and risk is climate change with impacts on the resource as well as on the sources of pressure on water. The challenges, though substantial, are not insurmountable. The Report shows how some countries have responded. Progress in providing drinking water is heartening with the Millennium Development Goal target on track in most regions. But other areas remain unaddressed and after decades of inaction the problems in water systems are enormous and will worsen if left unattended. Leaders in the water sector can inform decisions outside their domain and manage water resources to achieve agreed socioeconomic objectives and environmental integrity. Leaders in government, the private sector and civil society determine these objectives and allocate human and financial resources to meet them. Recognizing this responsibility, they must act now. The United Nations World Water Development Report UNESCO World Water Assessment Programme, 2021-03-22 Water is a finite and non-substitutable resource. As the foundation of life, societies and economies, it carries multiple values and benefits. But unlike most other natural resources, it has proven extremely difficult to determine its true value. The 2021 edition of the United Nations World Water Development Report titled Valuing Water assesses the current status of and challenges to the valuation of water across different sectors and perspectives and identifies ways in which valuation can be promoted as a tool to help improve its management and achieve global sustainable development.

The United Nations World Water Development Report Connor, Richard, Koncagül, Engin, UNESCO, UNESCO World Water Assessment Programme, 2014-03-18 The WWDR 2014 on Water and Energy is now an annual and thematic report with a focus on different strategic water issues each year It is shorter in the order of 100 pages with a standardized structure and data and case studies annexes related to the theme The WWDR 2014 will be launched during the main World Water Day celebrations in Tokyo Japan on 21 March 2014 Water and energy are closely interconnected and highly interdependent Trade offs need to be managed to limit negative impacts and foster opportunities for synergy Water and energy have crucial impacts on poverty alleviation both directly as a number of the Millennium Development Goals depend on major improvements in access to water sanitation power and energy sources and indirectly as water and energy can be binding constraints on economic growth the ultimate hope for widespread poverty reduction This fifth edition of the United Nations World Water Development Report WWDR 2014 seeks to inform decision makers The United Nations World Water
