Autobiography of Andrew Carnegie Andrew Carnegie,2007-11-01 Much more than a book of sage business advice though it is that too this extraordinary autobiography of one of the greatest American success stories is the tale of the nation's entrepreneurial spirit itself The man who made a fortune in steel relates in a lively and at times even poetic voice the story of his life from the vital lessons he learned from his poor but honest family about the value of hard work and a generous liberal philosophy and his early work in telegraph and railroad offices to his investments in oil and steel and the great pleasure he took in his philanthropic causes including setting up pensions for his steelworkers Published in 1920 just after his death and written as if to family and friends this is an important reminder that there was a time in American business when a multimillion dollar deal could be conducted on a handshake and greed wasn't good Entrepreneur and philanthropist ANDREW CARNEGIE 1835 1919 was born in Scotland and emigrated to America as a teenager His Carnegie Steel Company launched the steel industry in Pittsburgh and after its sale to J P Morgan he devoted his life to philanthropic causes His charitable organizations built more than 2 500 public libraries around the world and gave away more than 350 million during his lifetime

Moncure Daniel Conway, 2003 The Periodical ,1927 The English Catalogue of Books for .. ,1886 British Cinema Amy Sargeant, 2019-07-25 Although new writing and research on British cinema has burgeoned over the last fifteen years there has been a continued lack of single authored books providing a coherent overview to this fascinating and elusive national cinema Amy Sargeant's personal and entertaining history of British cinema aims to fill this gap With its insightful decade by decade analysis British Cinema is brought alive for a new generation of British cinema students and the general reader alike Sargeant challenges Rachel Low's premise that few of the films made in England during the twenties were any good by covering subjects as diverse as the art of intertitling the narrative complexities of Shooting Stars and Brunel's burlesques Sargeant goes on to examine among other things the differing acting styles of Dietrich and Donat in the seminal Knight Without Armour to early promotional campaigns in the 1930s whereas subjects ranging from product endorsement by stars to the character of the suburban wife are covered in the 1940s The 1950s includes topics such as the effect of post war government intervention to Free Cinema and Lindsay Anderson's infuriating lapses of rigour together with a much needed overview of Michael Balcon's contribution to British cinema For Sargeant the 1960s provides an overview of the tentative relationship between film and advertising and the rise of young Turks such as Tony Richardson Ken Loach Donald Cammell and Nicolas Roeg The Lesbian Muse and Poetic Identity, 1889-1930 Sarah Parker, 2015-10-06 Throughout history the poetic muse has tended to be a passive female and the poet male This dynamic caused problems for late Victorian and twentieth century women poets how could the muse be reclaimed and moved on from the passive role of old Parker looks at fin de siècle and modernist lyric poets to investigate how they overcame these challenges and identifies three key strategies the reconfiguring of the muse as a contemporary instead of a historical mythological figure the muse as a male figure and an interchangeable poet muse relationship granting agency to both The Spectator ,1865 The English Catalogue of Books ,1886 Saturday Review ,1866 The Literary Digest ,1891
