Environment and Health in Sub-Saharan Africa: Managing an Emerging Crisis Isaac N. Luginaah, Ernest K. Yanful, 2009-07-07 This book is the second edited compilation of selected refereed papers submitted to ERTEP 2007 The book is organized into 10 chapters along four of the key themes that were discussed at the conference Environmental Health Management Mining and Environment Environmental Monitoring and Policy Development and Sustainability and Social Responsibility It is hoped that the contents of the book will provide an insight into some of the environmental and health management challenges confronting the developing world and the steps being taken to address them The first three chapters under the Environmental Health and Management theme discuss issues related to food security and related environmental distress in sub-Saharan Africa Chapter 1 argues that pervasive poverty and low agricultural productivity are important factors in understanding food insecurity in the region and broader global processes are examined This chapter maintains that while poverty undermines individual and household access to sufficient food through market purchase land inequalities corruption structural adjustment programs civil conflict HIV AIDS and the role of the World Trade Organization Agreement on Agriculture are decisive The authors argue that achieving food security in sub-Saharan Africa requires policies and actions that are integrated with efforts to reduce poverty enhance livelihoods and incomes and increase agricultural output while also paying attention to underlying structural factors that bear on agriculture in the region
