Ethiopian Yearbook of International Law 2016 Zeray Yihdego, Melaku Geboye Desta, Fikremarkos Merso, 2017-06-09 This first volume of EtYIL focuses on issues concerning the developing world in general and the Horn of Africa and Ethiopia specifically. It argues that rebalancing the international law narrative to reflect Africa's legitimate interests is an urgent priority and can only succeed through the fair representation of African countries in the creation and interpretation of international law. The book begins by reflecting on the ICJ's West African Cases and provides a unique perspective on decolonisation as a source of jus cogens and obligations erga omnes. This is followed by a comprehensive analysis of the reception of international law in the Ethiopian legal system and of the potential implications of Ethiopia joining the WTO. The book then delves into such topical issues as the relationship between competition for natural resources and international investment law, the UN Global Goals and the fledgling international climate change regime with particular emphasis on the Paris Climate Agreement and their implications for developing countries. Further issues include the Declaration of Principles on the Grand Ethiopian Renaissance Dam signed by Ethiopia, Sudan and Egypt in light of Nile colonial treaties and contemporary international watercourses law as well as selected legal implications of the armed conflict in South Sudan. Gathering high quality scholarship from diverse researchers and examining a constellation of critical international law issues affecting developing countries especially African countries, the book offers a unique resource.

South African Schooling: The Enigma of Inequality Nic Spaull, Jonathan D. Jansen, 2019-11-05 This volume brings together many of South Africa's leading scholars of education and covers the full range of South African schooling from financing and policy reform to in-depth discussions of literacy, numeracy, teacher development and curriculum change. The book moves beyond a historical analysis and provides an inside view of the questions South African scholars are now grappling with: Are there different and preferential equilibria we have not yet thought of or explored and if so what are they? In practical terms, how does one get to a more equitable distribution of teachers, resources and learning outcomes? While decidedly local, these questions resonate throughout the developing world. South Africa today is the most unequal country in the world. The richest 10% of South Africans lay claim to 65% of national income and 90% of national wealth. This is the largest 90/10 gap in the world and one that is reflected in the schooling system. Two decades after apartheid, it is still the case that the life chances of most South African children are determined not by their ability or the result of hard work and determination but instead by the colour of their skin, the province of their birth and the wealth of their parents. Looking back on almost three decades of democracy in South Africa, it is this stubbornness of inequality and its patterns of persistence that demands explanation, justification and analysis. This is a landmark book on basic education in South Africa, an essential volume for those interested in learning outcomes and their inequality in South Africa. The various chapters present conceptually and empirically sophisticated analyses of learning outcomes across divisions of race, class and place. The book brings together the wealth of decades of research output from top quality researchers to explore what has improved what has not and why Prof Lant Pritchett Harvard University There is much wisdom in this collection from many of the best education analysts in South Africa No surprise that they conclude that without a large and sustained expansion in well trained teachers early childhood education and adequate school resources South Africa will continue to sacrifice its people s future to maintaining the privileges of the few Prof Martin Carnoy Stanford University Altogether one can derive from this very valuable volume if not an exact blueprint for the future then certainly at least a crucial and evidence based itinerary for the next few steps Dr Luis Crouch RTI

Optimization Methods for User Admissions and Radio Resource Allocation for Multicasting over High Altitude Platforms Ahmed Ibrahim,Attahiru Alfa,2022-09-01 This book focuses on the issue of optimizing radio resource allocation RRA and user admission control AC for multiple multicasting sessions on a single high altitude platform HAP with multiple antennas on board HAPs are quasi stationary aerial platforms that carry a wireless communications payload to provide wireless communications and broadband services They are meant to be located in the stratosphere layer of the atmosphere at altitudes in the range 17 22 km and have the ability to fly on demand to temporarily or permanently serve regions with unavailable telecommunications infrastructure An important requirement that the book focusses on is the development of an efficient and effective method for resource allocation and user admissions for HAPs especially when it comes to multicasting Power frequency space antennas selection and time scheduling are the resources considered in the problem over an orthogonal frequency division multiple access OFDMA HAP system Due to the strong dependence of the total number of users that could join different multicast groups on the possible ways we may allocate resources to these groups it is of significant importance to consider a joint user to session assignments and RRA across the groups From the service provider s point of view it would be in its best interest to be able to admit as many higher priority users as possible while satisfying their quality of service requirements High priority users could be users subscribed in and paying higher for a service plan that gives them preference of admittance to receive more multicast transmissions compared to those paying for a lower service plan Also the user who tries to join multiple multicast groups i e receive more than one multicast transmission would have preferences for which one he would favor to receive if resources are not enough to satisfy the QoS requirements Technical topics discussed in the book include Overview on High Altitude Platforms their different types and the recent works in this area Radio Resource Allocation and User Admission Control in HAPs Multicasting in a Single HAP System System Model and Mathematical Formulation Optimization schemes that are designed to enhance the performance of a branch and bound technique by taking into account special mathematical structure in the problem formulation Optimization Methods for User Admissions and Radio Resource Allocation for Multicasting over High Altitude Platforms Ibrahim, Ahmed,Alfa, Attahiru,2019-02-27 This book focuses on the issue of optimizing radio resource allocation RRA and user admission control AC for multiple multicasting sessions on a single high altitude platform HAP with multiple antennas on board HAPs are quasi stationary aerial platforms that carry a wireless communications payload to provide wireless communications and broadband services. They are meant to be located in the stratosphere layer of the atmosphere at altitudes in the range 17–22 km and have the ability to fly on demand to temporarily or permanently serve regions with unavailable telecommunications infrastructure. An important requirement that the book focusses on is the development of an efficient and effective method for resource allocation and user admissions for HAPs especially when it comes to multicasting. Power, frequency, space, antennas selection and time scheduling are the resources considered in the problem over an orthogonal frequency division multiple access OFDMA HAP system. Due to the strong dependence of the total number of users that could join different multicast groups on the possible ways we may allocate resources to these groups, it is of significant importance to consider a joint user to session assignments and RRA across the groups. From the service provider's point of view, it would be in its best interest to be able to admit as many higher priority users as possible while satisfying their quality of service requirements. High priority users could be users subscribed in and paying higher for a service plan that gives them preference of admittance to receive more multicast transmissions compared to those paying for a lower service plan. Also, the user who tries to join multiple multicast groups, i.e., receive more than one multicast transmission, would have preferences for which one he would favor to receive if resources are not enough to satisfy the QoS requirements. Technical topics discussed in the book include: Overview on High Altitude Platforms, their different types and the recent works in this area; Radio Resource Allocation and User Admission Control in HAPs; Multicasting in a Single HAP System; System Model and Mathematical Formulation; Optimization schemes that are designed to enhance the performance of a branch and bound technique by taking into account special mathematical structure in the problem formulation.

The Future of Accessibility in International Higher Education Alphin Jr., Henry C., Chan, Roy Y., Lavine, Jennie, 2017-05-17 Education is the foundation to almost all successful lives and it is important that a high level of schooling be available on a global scale. Studying the trends in accessibility in education will allow educators to improve their own teaching techniques as well as expand their influence to more remote areas in the world. The Future of Accessibility in International Higher Education is a comprehensive reference source for the latest scholarly material on emerging methods and trends in disseminating knowledge in university settings. Featuring extensive coverage on relevant topics such as e-learning, economic perspectives and educational technology, this publication is ideally designed for educators, academics, students and researchers interested in expanding their knowledge of global education.

The Responsive University and the Crisis in South Africa, 2021-05-31 Around the world, higher education is faced with a fundamental question: what is the basis for our claim of societal legitimacy? In this book, the authors go beyond the classical response regarding teaching, research and community engagement. Instead, the editor puts forward the proposition that the answer lies in responsiveness: the extent to which universities respond or fail to respond to societal challenges. Moreover, because of its intractable legacy issues and crisis of inequality, the question regarding the societal legitimacy of universities is particularly clearly manifested in South Africa one of the most unequal countries in the world The Responsive University brings together contributions on the issue of responsiveness from a number of international university leaders half of them specifically addressing the South African situation within the context of the international situation as presented by the other authors In the global discussion about the role of universities in society this book provides a conceptual framework for a way forward Breaking a Rainbow, Building a Nation Rekgotsofetse Chikane,2018-10-01

Breaking a Rainbow Building a Nation is a first hand account of the university protests that gripped South Africa between 2015 and 2017 widely better known as the FeesMustFall Chikane outlines the nature of student politics in the country before during and after the emergence of MustFall politics exploring the political dynamics that informed and drove the student protests and the effect that these MustFall movements have had on the nature of youth politics in the country Chikane looks at how the current nature of youth politics is different from previous youth upheavals that have defined South Africa specifically due to the fact that the protests were being led by so called coconuts who are part of the black elite Breaking a Rainbow Building a Nation poses the provocative question can coconuts be trusted with the revolution Rhodes Must

Fall Brian Kwoba,Roseanne Chantiluke,Athinangamso Nkopo,2018-08-15 When students at Oxford University called for a statue of Cecil Rhodes to be removed following similar calls by students in Cape Town the significance of these protests was felt across continents This was not simply about tearing down an outward symbol of British imperialism a monument glorifying a colonial conqueror but about confronting the toxic inheritance of the past and challenging the continued underrepresentation of people of colour at universities And it went to the very heart of the pernicious influence of colonialism in education today Written by key members of the movement in Oxford Rhodes Must Fall is the story of that campaign Showing the crucial importance of both intersectionality and solidarity with sister movements in South Africa and beyond this book shows what it means to boldly challenge the racism rooted deeply at the very heart of empire History beyond apartheid Thula Simpson,2023-04-18 This edited volume encompasses a range of themes and approaches relevant to the field of South African history today as viewed from the perspective of practicing historians at the cutting edge of research in the discipline The collection features the historians offering critical reflection on the theoretical and methodological aspects of their work This involves them both looking back at the inherited historiographical tradition in the respective areas of their research while also pointing forwards to possible future directions for scholarly engagement Abortion law reform in Africa: A reproductive health and rights perspective Charles Ngwena,Ebenezer Durojaye,Satang Nabaneh, Nkatha Murungi,2025-05-26 Despite notable legal and policy advancements in post colonial Africa unsafe abortion remains a pressing public health concern Abortion Law Reform in Africa A Reproductive Health and Rights Perspective spearheaded by the late Professor Charles Ngwena offers a vital and timely examination of this ongoing challenge This collection of essays moves beyond a mere analysis of legal texts unpacking the deep rooted barriers that continue to limit access to safe abortion services in Africa The authors critically assess the real world impact of current reforms highlighting their shortcomings in providing accessible rights based care They offer concrete strategies aimed at strengthening legal and policy frameworks to promote reproductive autonomy improve reproductive health outcomes and advance gender equality for women and girls confronting unwanted pregnancies Through a compelling exploration of how restrictive laws push countless women towards unsafe procedures often with fatal or debilitating consequences the volume underscores that meaningful reform demands more than legislative change It calls for addressing the broader social economic and cultural determinants that restrict access to abortion care By advocating for the implementation of progressive instruments such as the African Women s Protocol this book stands as a powerful call to action for African policymakers and stakeholders to facilitate access to safe abortion care services It urges the adoption of comprehensive and transformative measures that can truly secure women s rights to safe abortion and prevent needless suffering and death

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert

Weideman,John Read,Theo du Plessis,2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent Afrikaans but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience
