Civil Strife against Local Governance Sethulego Matebesi, 2017-03-13 Hardly a day goes by without South Africans going on a rampage over the provision of basic municipal services such as water electricity sanitation and other municipal obligations This book connects the critical issue of community protests to the equally precarious issue of political trust in local governance in South Africa by using comparative analysis of grassroots activism in predominantly black communities and predominantly white communities

Faith, Race and Inequality amongst Young Adults in South Africa Nadine Bowers Du Toit, 2022 For many young South African adults often called born frees who were born just before or just after the demise of political apartheid the ongoing realities of poverty and inequality bring to light the question of whether they truly are free in contemporary South Africa Their lived experiences of poverty and inequality seem to be in conflict with theologically laden concepts that remain prominent in social and political life such as reconciliation forgiveness justice and restitution This leads to a bi directional process of contesting and being contested by such notions and discourses Furthermore in light of the double legacy of both the church and youth as resisting injustice this publication seeks to explore the many perspectives from which the Christian faith race and inequality amongst youth can be brought to light Theoretical Orientations and Practical Applications of Psychological Ownership Chantal Olckers,Llewellyn van Zyl,Leoni van der Vaart,2017-11-27 This book shares the theoretical advancements that have been made regarding psychological ownership since the development of the construct and specifically the practical applications within multi cultural and cross cultural environments Enriched by empirical data and case studies by subject specialists in the field this book serves as a cutting edge benchmark for human resource management specialists industrial psychologists as well as students in positive organizational psychology and professionals in other fields This book follows an in depth view of the most recent research trends in psychological ownership Offering practical tools of how the psychological ownership of employees could be developed in the workplace to not only enhance the performance of organisations but to increase the commitment of employees and influence the intentions of skilled employees to remain with their organisations

Political Leadership and Social Media David

Taras, Richard Davis, 2019-12-09 Power Shift Political Leadership and Social Media examines how political leaders have adapted to the challenges of social media including Facebook Instagram Twitter and memes among other means of persuasion Established political leaders now use social media to grab headlines respond to opponents fundraise contact voters directly and organize their election campaigns Leaders of protest movements have used social media to organize and galvanize grassroots support and to popularize new narratives narratives that challenge and sometimes overturn conventional thinking Yet each social media platform provides different affordances and different attributes and each is used differently by political leaders In this book leading international experts provide an unprecedented look at the role of social media in leadership today Through a series of case studies dealing with topics ranging from Emmanuel Macron and Donald Trump's use of Twitter to Justin Trudeau's use of selfies and Instagram to how feminist leaders mobilize against stereotypes and injustices the authors argue that many leaders have found additional avenues to communicate with the public and use power This raises the question of whether this is causing a power shift in the relationship between leaders and followers Together the chapters in this book suggest new rules of engagement that leaders ignore at their peril The lack of systematic theoretically informed and empirically supported analyses makes Power Shift Political Leadership and Social Media an indispensable read for students and scholars wishing to gain new understanding on what social media means for leadership

Global Jurisprudential Apartheid in the Twenty-First Century Howard Tafara Chitimira, Artwell Nhemachena, Tapiwa Victor Warikandwa, 2021-09-27 In Global Jurisprudential Apartheid in the Twenty First Century Universalism and Particularism in International Law the contributors argue that the world is witnessing the formation of a global jurisprudential apartheid despite the promotion of democracy equality human rights and humanitarianism Examining organisations such as international criminal courts the World Trade Organisation the United Nations Security Council the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank the contributors unpack the challenges of global jurisprudential apartheid In particular they analyse the ways in which these organizations hold and contribute to the increasing inequalities between the Global North and the Global South Ultimately Global Jurisprudential Apartheid in the Twenty First Century shows that globalisation is a variant of the apartheid era particularism and not universalism working to advantage the Global North while disadvantaging the Global South under the pretense of humanitarianism

Decolonising Curricula and Pedagogy in Higher Education Shannon Morreira, Kathy Luckett, Siseko H. Kumalo, Manjeet Ramgotra, 2021-05-31 This book brings together voices from the Global South and Global North to think through what it means in practice to decolonise contemporary higher education Occasionally a theoretical concept arises in academic debate that cuts across individual disciplines Such concepts which may well have already been in use and debated for some time become suddenly newly and increasingly important at a particular historical juncture Right now debates around decolonisation are on the rise globally as we become increasingly aware that many of the old power imbalances brought into play by colonialism have not gone away in the present The authors in this volume bring theories of decoloniality into conversation with the structural cultural institutional relational and personal logics of curriculum pedagogy and teaching practice What is enabled in practice when academics set out to decolonize their teaching spaces What commonalities and differences are there where academics set out to do so in universities across disparate political and geographical spaces This book explores what is at stake when decolonial work is taken from the level of theory into actual practice The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Third World Thematics

for Whole Plant Physiology Mauro Centritto, 2017-07-04 Understanding plant responses to abiotic stresses is central to our ability to predict the impact of global change and environmental pollution on the production of food feed and forestry Besides increasing carbon dioxide concentration and rising global temperature increasingly frequent and severe climatic events e g extended droughts heat waves flooding are expected in the coming decades Additionally pollution e g heavy metals gaseous pollutants such as ozone or sulfur dioxide is an important factor in many regions decreasing plant productivity and product quality This Research topic focuses on stress responses at the level of whole plants addressing biomass related processes development of the root system root respiration fermentation leaf expansion stomatal regulation photosynthetic capacity leaf senescence yield and interactions between organs transport via xylem and phloem long distance signaling and secondary metabolites Comparisons between species and between varieties of the same species are helpful to evaluate the potential for species selection and genetic improvement This research topic is focused on the following abiotic stresses and interactions between them Increased carbon dioxide concentration in ambient air is an important parameter influenced by global change and affects photosynthesis stomatal regulation plant growth and finally yield Elevated temperature both the steady rise in average temperature and extreme events of shorter duration heat waves must be considered in the context of alterations in carbon balance through increased photorespiration decreased Rubisco activation and carboxylation efficiency damage to photosynthetic apparatus as well as loss of water via transpiration and stomatal sensitivity Low temperatures late frosts prolonged cold phases freezing temperature can decrease overwintering survival rates productivity of crop plants and species composition in meadows Water availability More frequent severe and extended drought periods have been predicted by climate change models The timing and duration of a drought period is crucial to determining plant responses particularly if the drought event coincides with an increase in temperature Drought causes stomatal closure decreasing the cooling potential of transpiration and potentially leading to thermal stress as leaf temperature rises Waterlogging may become also more relevant during the next decades and is especially important for seedlings and young plants It is not the presence of water itself that causes the stress but the exclusion of oxygen from the soil which causes a decrease in respiration and an increase in fermentation rates followed by a period of potential oxidative stress as water recedes Salinity high salt concentration in soil influences soil water potential the water status of the plant and hence affects productivity Salt tolerance will become an important trait driven by increased competition for land and the need to exploit marginal lands Understanding plant responses to abiotic stresses is central to our ability to predict the impact of global change and environmental pollution on the production of food feed and forestry Besides increasing carbon dioxide concentration and rising global temperature increasingly frequent and severe climatic events e g extended droughts heat waves flooding are expected in the coming decades Additionally pollution e g heavy metals gaseous pollutants such as ozone or sulfur dioxide is an important factor in many regions decreasing plant productivity and product quality This Research topic focuses on stress
