P. Wilkinson, King's College (University of Cambridge). King's College Association, 1973 A Legacy of Inequality Ian Bunting, 1994 Black Feminist Interventions to Decolonize the Westernized University Assata Zerai, 2025-03-30

Decoloniality is a perspective that challenges the colonial foundation and neoliberal operations of the westernized university today. In Black Feminist Interventions to Decolonize the Westernized University, Epistemology Research Methodology and Pedagogy, Assata Zerai highlights feminist decoloniality as a tool to promote institutional transformation indirectly through changes in research and teaching in the social sciences directly by centering social justice within higher education. Reflecting on three decades of scholarship, Zerai adapts principles of decolonial theory to scholarship pedagogy and praxis transnationally, focusing on higher education in the USA and South Africa. She intentionally centers students who have been racially and culturally excluded in these contexts and provides evidence of university students experiencing intersectional microaggressions including gendered ableist and queerphobic anti-Blackness. Zerai argues that faculty must appreciate such realities in order to affirm students and create learning environments in which all may thrive. Further, this book argues that ethical commitments to minoritized students and their communities must be reflected in humanizing research practices. Finally, Zerai reviews ways in which scholars have begun to move their disciplines from a focus on traditional canons of the modernist era to embrace decolonial sensibilities in their academic work. This book highlights these new approaches within the social sciences to promote justice, equity, accessibility, diversity, and inclusion. JEADI within higher education.

Governance and the postcolony David Everatt, 2019-08-01. Civil society, NGOs, governments, and multilateral institutions all repeatedly call for improved or good governance, yet they seem to speak past one another. Governance is in danger of losing all meaning precisely because it means many things to different people in varied locations. This is especially true in sub-Saharan Africa. Here, the postcolony takes many forms, reflecting the imperial project with painful accuracy. Offering a set of multidisciplinary analyses of governance in different sectors: crisis management, water, food, security, universities in different locales across sub-Saharan Africa, and from different theoretical approaches: network to adversarial, network governance, this volume makes a useful addition to the growing debates on how to govern. It steers away from offering a correct definition of governance or from promoting a particular position on postcoloniality. It gives no neat conclusion but invites readers to draw their own conclusions based on these differing approaches to and analyses of governance in the postcolony. As a robust critical assessment of power and accountability in the sub-Saharan context, Governance and the Postcolony: Views from Africa brings together topical case studies that will be a valuable resource for those working in the field of African international relations, public policy, public management, and administration.
