Al-Balushi,Lisa Martin-Hansen,Youngjin Song,2023-06-07 This edited book explores different international practices in reforming science teacher education programs for STEM education Incorporating case studies in Asia the Middle East Africa Europe North America and South America the contributors emphasise the large variety in STEM teacher preparation Including science centric versions of STEM programs as well as more integrated models of STEM this contextual diversity will help readers learn about the design opportunities and challenges of STEM teacher preparation in a variety of circumstances in order to innovate and improve STEM education more broadly Indigenous Knowledge Systems integration into STEM education: A Zimbabwean perspective Sunzuma G,Zezekwa N,Mudzamiri E,Chikuvadze P,2025-05-25 The inclusion of Indigenous Knowledge Systems IKS in STEM education is a crucial step towards decolonizing knowledge and creating inclusive relevant learning spaces that reflect culture This book examines the theoretical practical and contextual aspects of incorporating IKS

into Zimbabwe's STEM curriculum with a focus on high school education. The book is a reflection of the realization that education systems in postcolonial societies like Zimbabwe must do more than simply propagate traditional Western paradigms. The lived experiences, past events and educational institutions of their society must be reflected on and informed by them. The rich Indigenous knowledge in Zimbabwe has played a significant role in shaping communities' understanding of agriculture, health, engineering, mathematics and the environment over time. Still, much of this knowledge has been marginalized in formal education. By providing a framework for the meaningful integration of IKS into STEM disciplines, this work seeks to close that gap. Indigenous Knowledge Systems are introduced in Chapter 1, detailing their origin, development and philosophical basis. Chapter 2, 'An Examination of the current integration of IKS into STEM education in Zimbabwe', taking into account curricular approaches and classroom practice. Chapter 3 highlights the importance of evaluating and assessing integration efforts by proposing culturally sensitive and multidimensional approaches that are appropriate for Zimbabwean classrooms. In Chapter 4, we explore the challenges and obstacles to achieving successful IKS-STEM integration, such as teacher readiness, epistemological tensions and systemic resistance. Chapter 5 offers an exceptional examination of how Indigenous knowledge artefacts and practices can be utilized for conceptual development in high school STEM instruction, with practical examples from Zimbabwean communities being included in the analysis. It is aimed at teachers, researchers and practitioners of decolonial education practices, as well as policymakers and teacher trainers, to develop locally relevant and globally relevant pedagogies. We aspire that this work will contribute to advancing scholarship that recognizes Indigenous knowledge as essential living science and promotes African learners as both recipients and producers of valuable knowledge.

STEM Education in Poverty Brantina Chirinda, Gladys Sunzuma, Perkins Muredzi, 2025-07-15. This book is about Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) education in poverty and the lessons we learn from Zimbabwe. The world is driving towards the fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR) where economic growth has been attributed to STEM education. STEM education is vital in this era where both developed and developing countries are undergoing rapid changes. Globally, STEM education has been practised differently in schools and universities. University programs, new school curricula, instructional methods, extracurricular programs and professional development programs for in-service teachers have been created to cater to STEM subjects. STEM education is envisioned to produce critical thinkers inventors creators problem solvers innovators and professionals who will solve the world's ever changing challenges including inequity food insecurity climate change inequality and poverty STEM is essential to modern education Zimbabwe has faced significant economic challenges but has made remarkable strides in STEM education By examining the successes and challenges of STEM education in Zimbabwe we can learn valuable lessons about improving STEM education in underserved communities This book contributes to the international debate surrounding the optimal STEM education for students in underserved schools It incorporates detailed accounts of STEM education in Zimbabwe schools shedding light on the challenges students and educators face in impoverished areas In Zimbabwe STEM education faces significant challenges such as materials and facilities pedagogy policy reform access and relevance Some of the main issues highlighted in this book are the need for more resources including funding teaching materials and adequate laboratories Effective STEM pedagogy is hampered by an education system that emphasises the curriculum and teacher centred focus instead of focusing on how students can be taught or learn Research has shown that in Zimbabwe STEM teachers must apply inventive pedagogies and suitable learner centred STEM teaching approaches As a result there is a need for more STEM related programs and courses in schools and universities to improve the opportunities for students to pursue careers in these fields Another challenge is the need for more awareness about the opportunities and importance of STEM education and interest in STEM subjects among students which can be attributed to a lack of exposure and understanding of the relevance and importance of these fields in today's world While lack of resources and other challenges hinder effectiveness opportunity lies in promising pathways of policy and practice In Zimbabwe there is a varying degree of success in the implemented competence based curriculum which emphasises inquiry based learning and STEM education Finally there is a need for early exposure to STEM based career opportunities and for more collaboration between the government private sector and educational institutions to address these challenges and promote STEM education in Zimbabwe This book uses Zimbabwe as an example to explore STEM education in poverty By examining the successes and challenges of STEM education in Zimbabwe this book offers valuable insights into how STEM education can be integrated into the curriculum in countries with developing and emerging economies This book is an essential resource for anyone interested in improving STEM education in underserved communities

Witches, Westerners, and HIV Alexander Rödlach, 2016-09-17 A witch's curse an imperialist conspiracy a racist plot HIV AIDS is a catastrophic health crisis with complex cultural dimensions From small villages to the international system explanations of where it comes from who gets it and who dies are tied to political agendas religious beliefs and the psychology of devastating grief Frequently these explanations conflict with science and clash with prevention and treatment programs In Witches Westerners and HIV Alexander Rödlach draws on a decade of research and work in Zimbabwe to compare beliefs about witchcraft and conspiracy theories surrounding HIV AIDS in Africa He shows how both types of beliefs are part of a process of blaming others for AIDS a process that occurs around the globe

but takes on local culturally specific forms He also demonstrates the impact of these beliefs on public health and advocacy programs arguing that cultural misunderstandings contribute to the failure of many well intentioned efforts This insightful book provides a cultural perspective essential for everyone interested in AIDS and cross cultural health issues

(Re)Constructing Memory: Textbooks, Identity, Nation, and State James H. Williams, Wendy D. Bokhorst-Heng, 2016-07-08

This book engages readers in thirteen conversations presented by authors from around the world regarding the role that textbooks play in helping readers imagine membership in the nation Authors voices come from a variety of contexts some historical some contemporary some providing analyses over time But they all consider the changing portrayal of diversity belonging and exclusion in multiethnic and diverse societies where silenced invisible marginalized members have struggled to make their voices heard and to have their identities incorporated into the national narrative The authors discuss portrayals of past exclusions around religion ethnicity sexual orientation as they look at the shifting boundaries of insider and outsider This book is thus about who we are not only demographically but also in terms of the past especially how and whether we teach discredited pasts through textbooks The concluding chapters provides ways forward in thinking about what can be done to promote curricula that are more inclusive critical and positively bonding in increasingly larger and more inclusive contexts

Great Zimbabwe Shadreck Chirikure, 2020-11-29 Conditioned by local ways of knowing and doing Great Zimbabwe develops a new interpretation of the famous World Heritage site of Great Zimbabwe It combines archaeological knowledge including recent material from the author s excavations with native concepts and philosophies Working from a large data set has made it possible for the first time to develop an archaeology of Great Zimbabwe that is informed by finds and observations from the entire site and wider landscape In so doing the book strongly contributes towards decolonising African and world archaeology Written in an accessible manner the book is aimed at undergraduate students graduate students and practicing archaeologists both in Africa and across the globe The book will also make contributions to the broader field such as African Studies African History and World Archaeology through its emphasis on developing synergies between local ways of knowing and the archaeology

Law, Language, and Science Diana Jeater, 2006-12-30 This book examines the mentalities of various communities within a district of Southern Rhodesia

Zimbabwe Focusing in particular on white administrators and missionaries in the Masetter District it combines linguistic lexical analysis with historical interpretation in an attempt to reconstruct what whites and Africans actually meant by the words and practices they used in interactions with each other Jeater provides a detailed study of translation work in Mt Selinda an evangelical mission it also examines formal and informal court hearings to contrast the perceptions and meanings ascribed to cases by white adjudicators and by African participants This leads into an initial attempt to map out the birth of ethnography in Southern Rhodesia and to contrast it with anthropology in South Africa By the 1920s Africans expertise in their own languages and culture had been usurped by self referential white linguists and ethnographers This account suggests that there is a tendency among archive oriented historians to overestimate how far white missionaries and administrators really understood what Africans said and did In addition to making a contribution to our empirical knowledge of Zimbabwe s history the book focuses on how and why investigators first began to make claims to such knowledge It urges those studying African history to be self reflective about their practice examining the historical roots of their claims to expertise such claims
