

18. The Impossible Victory: Vietnam

From 1864 to 1972, the most intense and most powerful nation in the history of the world made a continuous military effort, with everything short of atomic bombs, to defeat a nationless revolutionary government in a deep, peasant country—and failed. When the United States fought in Vietnam, it was organized modern technology versus organized human beings, and the human beings won.

In the course of that war, they developed in the United States the greatest military apparatus that nation had ever experienced, a superb, most skill played a critical part in bringing the war to an end.

It was another startling fact of the clash.

In the fall of 1945 Japan, defeated, was forced to leave Indochina, the former French colony it had occupied at the start of the war. In the meantime, a revolutionary movement had grown there, determined to end colonial control and to achieve a new life for the peasants of Indochina. Led by a Communist named Ho Chi Minh, the revolutionists fought against the Japanese, and when they were given some token independence in August in late 1945, with a million people in the streets, and issued a Declaration of Independence. It borrowed from the Declaration of the Rights of Man and the Citizen, in the French Revolution, and from the American Declaration of Independence, and began: "All men are created equal. They are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among them are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness." Just as the Americans in 1776 had listed their grievances against the English King, the Vietnamese listed their complaints against French rule:

They have violated human laws. . . . They have made more prisons than subjects. They have mercilessly slain our parents, they have destroyed villages in view of school. They have destroyed public institutions. . . . They have robbed us of our rice fields, our houses, our forests, and our own mother's milk.

They have committed countless unjustifiable acts and outraged our people, exploiting our resources, to a state of extreme poverty.

From the end of last year, in the beginning of this year . . . must

Vietnam Howard Zinn, 2012-11 Zinn's compelling case against the Vietnam War now with a new introduction Of the many books that challenged the Vietnam War Howard Zinn's stands out as one of the best and most influential It helped spark national debate on the war It includes a powerful speech written by Zinn that President Johnson should have given to lay out the case for ending the war The Wrong War Jeffrey Record, 1998 Was the U S military prevented from achieving victory in Vietnam by poor decisions made by civilian leaders a hostile media and the antiwar movement or was it doomed to failure from the start Twenty five years after the last U S troops left Vietnam the most divisive U S armed conflict since the War of 1812 remains an open wound not only because 58 000 Americans were killed and billions of dollars wasted but also because it was an ignominious unprecedented defeat In this iconoclastic new study Vietnam veteran and scholar Jeffrey Record looks past the consensual myths of responsibility to offer the most trenchant balanced and compelling analysis ever published of the causes for America's first defeat Sure to spark widespread discussion and argument among veterans academics policy makers military professionals and interested citizens this landmark contribution breaks new ground by candidly examining the strategic failures of the military's leadership long portrayed as innocent victims and exploring whether a different policy could have avoided defeat With a rare blend of relevant personal experience and impeccable scholarship Record establishes four root causes for the U S defeat in a logical easy to follow argument that explodes earlier professional assessments and popular appraisals Vietnam noble cause international crime or strategic mistake Record's surprising and sometimes incendiary answers to these and other questions critical to the future success of the civilian run military will ensure that the armed forces accountability in Vietnam is no longer overlooked Unheralded Victory Mark W. Woodruff, 2000 Unheralded Victory is a revisionist history of the Vietnam war charting the defeat of the Viet Cong It investigates why the popular image of the war then as now is that propagated by Hanoi's propaganda machine and why US propaganda was so clumsy Many myths are debunked drug use among forces fragging US morale the author's account squares with the recollection of actual veterans He also exposes a number of eyewitnesses some active in the veterans organizations who were never in Vietnam and whose false testimony has contributed to enduring myth of the crazed Nam veteran as portrayed in cinema and TV
