Abstract

The authors of significant portions of research have reported that the following factors are related to the use of the Internet for information seeking: age, gender, education, computer use, and Internet use. The purpose of this study was to investigate the relationship between these factors and the use of the Internet for information seeking.

These results indicate that the performance of the model is not significantly affected by the number of iterations. The model is able to converge to a stable solution within a reasonable number of iterations.

Riggs,2004-01 Water Relationships in Foods Harry Levine,Louise Slade,2013-11-21 This book was developed from the papers presented at a symposium on Water Relationships in Foods which was held from April 10-14, 1989 at the 197th National Meeting of the American Chemical Society in Dallas, Texas, under the auspices of the Agricultural and Food Chemistry Division of ACS. The editors of this book organized the symposium to bring together an esteemed group of internationally respected experts currently active in the field of water relationships in foods to discuss recent advances in the 1980s and future trends for the 1990s. It was the hope of all these contributors that this ACS symposium would become a memorable keystone above the foundation underlying the field of water in foods. This strong foundation has been constructed in large part from earlier technical conferences and books such as the four milestone International Symposia on the Properties of Water (ISOPOW I-IV), the recent IFT Basic Symposium on Water Activity and Penang meeting on Food Preservation by Moisture Control, as well as the key fundamental contributions from the classic 1980 ACS Symposium Series 127 on Water in Polymers and from Felix Franks' famous seven-volume Comprehensive Treatise on Water plus five subsequent volumes of the ongoing Water Science Reviews. The objective of the 1989 ACS symposium was to build on this foundation by emphasizing the most recent and major advances.
