History of Computing: Learning from the Past Arthur Tatnall, 2010-08-06 History of Computing: Learning from the Past. Why is the history of computing important? Given that the computer as we now know it came into existence less than 70 years ago, it might seem a little odd to some people that we are concerned with its history. Isn't history about old things? Computing, of course, goes back much further than 70 years, with many earlier vices rightly being known as computers, and their history is of course important. It is only the history of electronic digital computers that is relatively recent. History is often justified by use of a quote from George Santayana who famously said that "Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it." It is arguable whether there are particular mistakes in the history of computing that we should avoid in the future, but there is some circularity in this question as the only way we will know the answer to this is to study our history. This book contains papers on a wide range of topics relating to the history of computing, written both by historians and also by those who were involved in creating this history. The papers are the result of an international conference on the History of Computing that was held as a part of the IFIP World Computer Congress in Brisbane in September 2010.

Boundary Integral Methods Luigi Morino, Renzo Piva, 2012-12-06 This volume contains edited papers from IABEM 90, the 1990 Symposium of the International Association for Boundary Element Methods (IABEM). As stated in the By-Laws of the Association, the purposes of IABEM are: 1) to promote the international exchange of technical information related to the development and application of boundary integral equation (BIE) formulations and their numerical implementation to problems in engineering and science commonly referred to as the boundary element method (BEM); 2) to promote research and development activities for the advancement of boundary integral equation methods and boundary element solution algorithms; 3) to foster closer personal relationships within the BEM community of researchers. The objectives of the Symposium, in line with those of the Association, was to provide a forum where the two souls of the Association, i.e. i) mathematical foundations and numerical aspects and ii) engineering applications, could be integrated. We believe that the first aspect has been neglected in too many of the BEM Symposia held in the past, which, with a few exceptions, notably the IUTAM Symposia on the subject, have emphasized the practical aspects of the method As a consequence we have tried to give a stronger emphasis to the more theoretical issues this is attested for instance by the fact that the two general lectures were given by Prof Gaetano Fichera of the University of Rome La Sapienza and Prof
