James R. Driscoll,2013-07-30 Wanted young men to enlist in Uncle Sam s submarine fleet for service in European waters The magic words stood out in bold type from the newspaper that Jack Hammond held spread out over his knees Underneath the caption ran a detailed statement setting forth the desire of the United States Government to recruit at once a great force of young Americans to man the undersea ships that were to be sent abroad for service against Germany Stirred by the appeal Jack snatched the paper closer and read every word of the advertisement his eyes dancing with interest Your country needs you now it ran and further on The only way to win the war is to carry it right home to the foe Below in more of the bold type it concluded Don t delay a moment while you hesitate your country waits From beginning to end Jack read the appeal again Before his eyes in fancy flashed the picture of a long lithe steel vessel skimming the ocean captain and crew on the lookout for the enemy the Stars and Stripes flapping from the tailrail For an instant he imagined himself a member of the crew gazing through the periscope at a giant German battleship yes firing a torpedo that leaped away to find its mark against the gray steel hull of the foe The Submarine Boys' Trial Trip Victor G.
