World History High School Textbooks:

The Patchwork of World History in Texas High Schools Stephen Jackson, 2022-11-30 This book traces the historical development of the World History course as it has been taught in high school classrooms in Texas a populous and nationally influential state over the last hundred years Arguing that the course is a result of a patchwork of competing groups and ideas that have intersected over the past century with each new framework patched over but never completely erased or replaced the author crucially examines themes of imperialism Eurocentrism and nationalism in both textbooks and the curriculum more broadly The first part of the book presents an overview of the World History course supported by numerical analysis of textbook content and public documents while the second focuses on the depiction of non Western peoples and persistent narratives of Eurocentrism and nationalism It ultimately offers that a more global accurate and balanced curriculum is possible despite the tension between the ideas of professional world historians who often de center the nation state in their quest for a truly global approach to the subject and the historical core rationale of state sponsored education in the United States to produce loyal citizens Offering a new conceptual understanding of how colonial themes in World History curriculum have been dealt with in the past and are now engaged with in contemporary times it provides essential context for scholars and educators with interests in the history of education curriculum studies and the teaching of World History in the United States

World History Hutton Webster, 1921 Teaching World History in the Twenty-first Century: A Resource Book Heidi Roupp, 2015-02-12 This practical handbook is designed to help anyone who is preparing to teach a world history course or wants to teach it better It includes contributions by experienced teachers who are reshaping world history education and features new approaches to the subject as well as classroom tested practices that have markedly improved world history teaching

History Textbooks and the Wars in Asia Gi-Wook Shin, Daniel C. Snider, 2011-02-08 Over the past fifteen years Northeast Asia has witnessed growing intraregional exchanges and interactions especially in the realms of culture and economy Still the region cannot escape from the burden of history This book examines the formation of historical memory in four Northeast Asian societies China Japan South Korea and Taiwan and the United States focusing on the period from the beginning of the Sino Japanese war in 1931 until the formal conclusion of the Pacific War with the San Francisco Peace Treaty of 1951 The contributors analyse the recent efforts of Korean Japanese and Chinese scholars to write a common history of Northeast Asia and question the underlying motivations for their efforts and subsequent achievements In doing so they contend that the greatest obstacle to reconciliation in Northeast Asia lies in the existence of divided and often conflicting historical memories The book argues that a more fruitful approach lies in understanding how historical memory has evolved in each country and been incorporated into respective master narratives Through uncovering the existence of different master narratives it is hoped citizens will develop a more self critical self reflective approach to their own history and that such an introspective effort has the potential to lay the foundation for greater self and mutual understanding and eventual historical reconciliation in the region This book will be essential reading for students and scholars of Asian history Asian education and international relations in East Asia World History Teaching in Asia Shingo

Minamizuka,2019-03-30 World History Teaching in Asia is the first broad survey of the content and approaches used to teach world history in secondary schools and colleges in Asia The collection has been crafted by scholars and educators whose goal was to shed light on the importance of history education and to foster understanding of and between Asian countries These essays show how the teaching of world history in Asian countries has developed since World War II with many interesting parallels including the issue of Eurocentrism but also distinctive national trends and considerable changes over time At a time when many Asian countries are making great strides in education this study of history education in Asia will be of real interest to educators history scholars and policy makers worldwide The Professionalization of History in English

Canada Donald A. Wright,2015-05-27 The study of history in Canada has a history of its own and its development as an academic discipline is a multifaceted one The Professionalization of History in English Canada charts the transition of the study of history from a leisurely pastime to that of a full blown academic career for university trained scholars from the mid nineteenth to the late twentieth century Donald Wright argues that professionalization was not in fact a benign process nor was it inevitable It was deliberate Within two generations historians saw the creation of a professional association the Canadian Historical Association and rise of an academic journal the Canadian Historical Review Professionalization was also gendered In an effort to raise the status of the profession and protect the academic labour market for men male historians made a concerted effort to exclude women from the academy History s professionalization is best understood as a transition from one way of organizing intellectual life to another What came before professionalization was not necessarily inferior but rather a different perspective of history As well Wright argues convincingly that professionalization inadvertently led to a popular inverse the amateur historian whose work is often more widely received and appreciated by the general public

The Status of World History Instruction in American Secondary Schools William E. Pulliam,1972 The one year course in world history popular in some quarters does not seem to have made much headway High school level courses on world history are one of the many responses to the World Wars yet said courses have never been recommended by a committee of national scope on which there were any historians Opinion surveys among teachers and students indicate that no other part of the typical social studies program is more criticized than the tenth grade level one year elective world history course These courses are increasing in number textbooks are multiplying and a few interesting experiments are being worked out yet there is no general agreement on organization scope objectives teaching strategies or assessment in these courses This document is a summary of historical and recent surveys on curricular trends in social studies with regard to world history to help educators assess what impact they may have on the teaching of world history in the 1970s The New World History Ross E. Dunn,Laura J. Mitchell,Kerry Ward,2016-08-23 The New World History is a comprehensive volume of essays selected to enrich world history teaching and scholarship in this rapidly expanding field The forty four articles in this book take stock of the history evolving literature and current trajectories of new world history These essays together with the editors introductions to thematic chapters encourage educators and students to reflect critically on the development of the field and to explore concepts approaches and insights valuable to their own work The selections are organized in ten chapters that survey the history of the movement the seminal ideas of founding thinkers and today s practitioners changing concepts of world historical space and time comparative methods environmental history the big history movement globalization debates over the meaning of Western power and ongoing questions about the intellectual premises and assumptions that have shaped the field , berliner china hefte , World History and National Identity in China Xin Fan,2021-02-25 Nationalism is pervasive in China today Yet nationalism is not entrenched in China s intellectual tradition Over the course of the twentieth century the combined forces of cultural social and political transformations nourished its development but resistance to it has persisted Xin Fan examines the ways in which historians working on the world beyond China from within China have attempted to construct narratives that challenge nationalist readings of the Chinese past and the influence that these historians have had on the formation of Chinese identity He traces the ways in which generations of historians from the late Qing through the Republican period through the Mao period to the relative moment of opening in the 1980s have attempted to break cross cultural boundaries in writing an alternative to the national narrative Censoring History Laura E. Hein,Mark Selden,2016-09-16 Considering the great influence textbooks have as interpreters of history politics and culture to future generations of citizens it is no surprise that they generate considerable controversy Focusing largely on textbook treatment of lingering and sometimes explosive tensions originating in World War II Censoring History addresses issues of textbook nationalism in historical and comparative perspective Discussions include Japan s Comfort Women and the Nanjing Massacre Nazi genocide against the Jews Gypsies Catholics and others Hiroshima and Nagasaki and the Indochina wars The essays address controversies over textbook content around the globe How and why do specific representations of war evolve What are the international and national forces affecting how textbook writers publishers and state censors depict the past How do these forces differ from country to country Other comparative essays analyze nationalist and war controversies in German US and Chinese textbook debates Identity, Trauma, Sensitive and Controversial Issues in the Teaching of History Hilary Cooper,Jon Nichol,2015-10-13 History Education is a politically contested subject It can be used to both promote xenophobia and to develop critical thinking multiple perspectives and tolerance Accordingly this book critically examines complex issues and constructivist approaches that make history relevant to students understanding of the modern world As such it has global appeal especially in North and South America Canada Europe and Asia The book s authors address the major challenges that History Education faces in an era of globalisation digital revolution and international terror nationalism and sectarian and religious conflict and warfare Central to this volume are controversial issues trauma and questions of personal and national identity from a wide range of international settings and perspectives The research in this book was undertaken by leading history educators from every continent Their interdisciplinary research represents an important contribution to the teaching of social sciences social psychology civic education programmes history and history education in schools colleges and universities The book offers new approaches to history educators at all levels In addition the chapters offer potential as required reading for students to both develop an international perspective and to compare and contrast their own situations with those that the book covers Section I considers issues related to identity how can history education promote social coherence in multicultural societies in societies divided by sectarianism or countries adapting to regime changes whether Communist or Fascist including for example South Africa previously Communist countries of Eastern Europe and previous dictatorships in South America and Western Europe It discusses such questions as How important is it that students learn the content of history through the processes of historical enquiry What should that content be and who should decide it educators or politicians What is the role of textbooks and who should write and select them Should history be taught as a discrete discipline or as part of a citizenship or social sciences curriculum Sections II and III explore ways in which memory of sensitive issues related to the past to war or to massacres may be addressed Are there new methodologies or approaches which make this possible How can students understand situations involving intolerance and injustice

World History - A Christian Interpretation Albert Hyma,2001-11 An Analytical and Descriptive Guide to the Materials in The History Teacher's Magazine and The Historical Outlook Richard Harrison Shryock,1925 The Nanjing Massacre in History and Historiography Joshua A. Fogel,2000-03-05 A compelling historiographic study of the Rape of Nanjing during the Sino Japanese War of 1937 1945 one of the worst atrocities of all times and of the event's repercussions

History of Contemporary Japan since World War II Edward R. Beauchamp,2013-04-11 The best scholarship on the development of contemporary Japan This collection presents well over 100 scholarly articles on modern Japanese society written by leading scholars in the field These selections have been drawn from the most distinguished scholarly journals as well as from journals that are less well known among specialists and the articles represent the best and most important scholarship on their particular topic An understanding of the present through the lens of the past The field of modern Japan studies has grown steadily as Westerners have recognized the importance of Japan as a leading world economic force and an emerging regional power The post 1945 economic success of the Japanese has however been achieved in the context of that nation's history social structure educational enterprise and political environment It is impossible to understand the postwar economic miracle without an appreciation of these elements Japan's economic emergence has brought about and in some cases exacerbated already existing tensions and these tensions have in turn had a significant impact on Japanese economic life The series is designed to give readers a basic understanding of modern Japan its institutions and its people as we stand on the threshold of a new century often referred to as the Pacific
