(Historian)

"Agriculture can drain the land of nutrients, often through soil salinization. An inundation can be harnessed by both canals and river splays to replenish fertility of the land and water crops. It also may replenish a low water table for well-orientated civilization such as the Assyrians. All of these crops being aided are used directly as food in and in secondary goods, such as textiles, to fuel the economy and prosperity of the culture."

From Peoples Into Nations John Connelly, 2022-01-25 This book is a history of East Central Europe since the late eighteenth century the region of Europe between German central Europe and Russia in the East Connelly argues the region for which it is frequently hard to define exact boundaries and which is sometimes treated country by country in a way seemingly separate from the broader trends of European history was one of shared experience despite most of the peoples being divided by linguistic geographic and political barriers Beginning in the 1780s an unwitting Habsburg monarch Joseph II decreed that his subjects would use only German as he hoped to mold a common nationality using German over the disparate subjects Instead he unleashed the energies and struggle for the emergence of new nations that pitted small peoples armed with an idea against empires The author argues that the underlying national self assertion which emerged under imperial rule in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries shows deep connections to subsequent histories to the creation of nation states of the regions after World War I the failure of democratic rule in these states during the interwar years the submersion of the region under Nazi then Soviet rule after 1939 and to the reinvention of sovereign states and then the break up of two of them after 1989 The book interconnects major themes and country histories for first time chronicling this diverse region over many generations from the time of Joseph through democratic and socialist revolutions genocide and Stalinism through civil society movements struggling for liberal democracy into our own day when illiberal politicians come to power by exploiting very old fears Pirates, Terrorists, and Warlords Jeffrey H.
