Joanne was one of the researchers on the project, working closely with two schools, four children and three teachers, including Nadia, a Grade 1³ teacher. Two of the children in her class were involved in the ethnographic, qualitative component of the project as case study participants. Nadia did her 1-year teacher qualification (PGCE⁴) with both Karin and Joanne at the University of Cape Town.

Both teaching philosophies are characterised by using questions and transmodal methods that involve the creative arts, are divergent and generate further questioning (cf. Murris, 2016). Unlike using questions that 'Google can answer', P4C and Reggio Emilia celebrate questions that focus on concepts that children have raised themselves and with meanings that are puzzling at any age. These philosophical questions provoke further enquiries that spiral into unknown territories of knowledge creation for both teacher and child. Rooted in academic research, in this chapter we present
