Hostetler shows how Qing China 1636 1911 used cartography and ethnography to pursue its imperial ambitions She argues that far from being on the periphery of developments in the early modern period Qing China both participated in and helped shape the new emphasis on empirical scientific knowledge that was simultaneously transforming Europe and its colonial empires at the time Although mapping in China is almost as old as Chinese civilization itself the Qing insistence on accurate to scale maps of their territory was a new response to the difficulties of administering a vast and growing empire Likewise direct observation became increasingly important to Qing ethnographic writings such as the illustrated manuscripts known as Miao albums from which twenty color paintings are reproduced in this book These were intended to educate Qing officials about various non Han peoples so that they could govern these groups more effectively Hostetler s groundbreaking account
