Ancient Civilizations of the World Denny Rose & Rowan Allen, 2018-05-08 About 5 000 years ago the first urban societies developed laying the foundations for the first civilizations Nearly all civilizations share the same few features they have abundant food surpluses contained cities political bureaucracies armies defined religious and social hierarchies and long distance trading Ancient Egyptian culture flourished between c 5500 BCE with the rise of technology as evidenced in the glass work of faience and 30 BCE with the death of Cleopatra VII the last Ptolemaic ruler of Egypt It is famous today for the great monuments which celebrated the triumphs of the rulers and honored the gods of the land The culture is often misunderstood as having been obsessed with death but had this been so it is unlikely it would have made the significant impression it did on other ancient cultures such as Greece and Rome Neolithic means the new stone age even though agriculture was the crowning achievement of the period Civilizations started out small Agriculture at first tended to tie only small groups together These groups also all settled along rivers important as a reliable and predictable source of water As time passed families usually worked the same plot of land over successive generations leading to the concept of ownership Ancient mortars and grinding tools unearthed in a large mound in the Zagros Mountains of Iran reveal that people were grinding wheat and barley about

help educators assess what impact they may have on the teaching of world history in the 1970s The Structure of World History Kojin Karatani, 2014-03-28 In this major paradigm shifting work Kojin Karatani systematically re reads Marx's version of world history shifting the focus of critique from modes of production to modes of exchange Karatani seeks to understand both Capital Nation State the interlocking system that is the dominant form of modern global society and the possibilities for superseding it In The Structure of World History he traces different modes of exchange including the pooling of resources that characterizes nomadic tribes the gift exchange systems developed after the adoption of fixed settlement agriculture the exchange of obedience for protection that arises with the emergence of the state the commodity exchanges that characterize capitalism and finally a future mode of exchange based on the return of gift exchange albeit modified for the contemporary moment He argues that this final stage marking the overcoming of capital nation and state is best understood in light of Kant's writings on eternal peace The Structure of World History is in many ways the capstone of Karatani's brilliant career yet it also signals new directions in his thought
