To whom it may concern:

TFT, Inc. is a manufacturer of EAS Encoders/Decoders, who now seeks Type Certification of an EAS Decoder (only) under FCC Rule Part 11.

On January 31, 1996, TFT, Inc. was granted Type Certification on an Emergency Alert System Encoder/Decoder, FCC Identifier BIOEAS911, File No. 31010/EQU 4-3-4. The Decoder (only) for which TFT now seeks Type Certification is part of the original Certification Application made on November 10, 1995. Several of the Part 11 Compliance Tests for that application are incorporated in this new application for an EAS Decoder (only) device, which does not function as an Encoder as well.

In order to accomplish this, TFT has removed several circuits and components from the original Encoder/Decoder in order to disable and defeat its functionality as an EAS Encoder. Because the overall construction of the unit is not materially changed, all Decoder tests conducted for the original application remains at no change and may apply to this application as well.

Best regards,

Edmund Fong
Executive Vice President- TFT Inc.

Techniques based on vacuum deposition, vapor phase epitaxy and liquid and solid phase epitaxy are presented along with new techniques for the development of three dimensional nano and micro structures. Volume IIIB Materials Processes and Technology Handbook of Crystal Growth Second Edition Volume IIIB Materials Processes and Technology edited by chemical and biological engineering expert Thomas F. Kuech describes both specific techniques for epitaxial growth as well as an array of materials specific growth processes. The volume begins by presenting variations on epitaxial growth process where the kinetic processes are used to develop new types of materials at low temperatures. Optical and physical characterizations of epitaxial films are discussed for both in situ and exit to characterization of epitaxial materials. The remainder of the volume presents both the epitaxial growth processes associated with key technology materials as well as unique structures such as monolayer and two dimensional materials. Volume IIIA Basic Techniques Provides an introduction to the chief epitaxial growth processes and the underpinning scientific concepts used to understand and develop new processes. Presents new techniques and technologies for the development of three dimensional structures such as quantum dots, nano wires, rods and patterned growth. Introduces and utilizes basic concepts of thermodynamics, transport and a wide cross section of kinetic processes which form the atomic level text of growth process. Volume IIIB Materials Processes and Technology Describes atomic level epitaxial deposition and other low temperature growth techniques. Presents both the development of thermal and lattice mismatched streams as the techniques used to characterize the structural properties of these materials. Presents in depth discussion of the epitaxial growth techniques associated with silicon, silicon based materials, compound semiconductors, semiconducting nitrides and refractory materials.
