Anderson, 2012-01-05 Christian teaching and modern sensibilities both eschew nationalism as an extreme fanatical form of patriotism an excessive or disordered form of an otherwise healthy and proper national identity But what if the problem of nationalism is something much more fundamental What if nationalism is actually the process leading to national identity in the first place And what happens when this process entails selectively appropriating and reinterpreting the Christian tradition for the sake of the envisioned nation This book takes up these questions within the context of American Christian nationalism Here the process of interweaving the Christian narrative with American history and myth is examined in depth through a thorough engagement with scholarship on nationalism and within a framework shaped by contemporary theopolitical studies and the biblical narrative The study aims to discern how the Christian Scriptures and theological tradition have been used by Christians themselves to further what amounts to an alternative gospel In so doing this book charts a path for the church to evaluate itself honestly in light of Christ's lordship repent and learn to tell its story more truly

The Promised End Paul S. Fiddes, 2000-10-03 This book brings Christian theology creative literature and literary critical theory into dialogue on the theme of the end Where appropriate it also considers recent scientific views on the nature of time Postmodern critical theorists and many other writers emphasize the open nature of endings but this book suggests that the mixture of openness and closure in Christian eschatology not only offers a coherent sense of an ending but may make it possible to construct endings in the here and now On the way to this conclusion the book provides an exegesis of novels plays and poems by such writers as John Fowles Julian Barnes Doris Lessing Samuel Beckett T S Eliot Virginia Woolf James Joyce and Shakespeare Among critical theorists postmodern and otherwise it considers especially the ideas of Frank Kermode Northrop Frye Jacques Derrida and Paul Ricoeur The author also examines the main themes of Christian eschatology such as death parousia resurrection human destiny and the nature of eternity and offers a critical view of the doctrines of the last things produced by major modern theologians including Jürgen Moltmann and Wolfhart Pannenberg Through this dialogue the book aims to form an image of the eternal wholeness of persons in the life of the triune God that takes seriously the deconstruction of images of domination
