Studies of Identity in the 2008 Presidential Campaign Robert E. Denton Jr., 2010-06-14 To simply say the 2008 presidential election was historic seems like an understatement The election was unique in many ways beyond the selection of the nation's first African American as President The drama of the election was also heightened by the historic nomination battle between Hillary Clinton and Barack Obama The contest generated issues of race and gender throughout the campaign as did the candidacy of Sarah Palin as the Republican Vice Presidential nominee And John McCain brought his own unique qualities to the campaign Vietnam War hero long term Congressional service record feisty temperament and the oldest first time presidential candidate to run for the Presidency Thus issues of race gender and age dominated the campaign both implicitly and explicitly The candidacies of Clinton Obama McCain and Palin provided the context and dynamics for charges of racism sexism and ageism Studies of Identity in the 2008 Presidential Campaign explores issues of identity politics and the presidential election Investigating all aspects of race gender or ageism the contributors to this volume address the role and function of identity politics in political campaigns and highlight challenges of identity politics in contemporary political campaigns

Time Joel Burges, Amy Elias, 2016-08-02 The critical condition and historical motivation behind Time Studies The concept of time in the post millennial age is undergoing a radical rethinking within the humanities Time A Vocabulary of the Present newly theorizes our experiences of time in relation to developments in post 1945 cultural theory and arts practices Wide ranging and theoretically provocative the volume introduces readers to cutting edge temporal conceptualizations and investigates what exactly constitutes the scope of time studies Featuring twenty essays that reveal what we talk about when we talk about time today especially in the areas of history measurement and culture each essay pairs two keywords to explore the tension and nuances between them from past future and anticipation unexpected to extinction adaptation and serial simultaneous Moving beyond the truisms of postmodernism the collection newly theorizes the meanings of temporality in relationship to aesthetic cultural technological and economic developments in the postwar period This book thus assumes that time not space as the postmoderns had it is central to the contemporary period and that through it we can come to terms with what contemporaneity can be for human beings caught up in the historical present In the end Time reveals that the present is a cultural matrix in which overlapping temporalities condition and compete for our attention Thus each pair of terms presents two temporalities yielding a generative account of the time or times in which we live
