The Longitudinal Study of Advanced L2 Capacities Lourdes Ortega, Heidi Byrnes, 2009-05-07 Researchers and educators routinely call for longitudinal research on language learning and teaching The present volume explores the connection between longitudinal study and advanced language capacities two under researched areas and proposes an agenda for future research Five chapters probe theoretical and methodological reflections about the longitudinal study of advanced L2 capacities followed by eight chapters that report on empirical longitudinal investigations spanning descriptive quasi experimental qualitative and quantitative longitudinal methodologies In addition the co editors offer a detailed introduction to the volume and a coda chapter in which they explore what it would take to design systematic research programs for the longitudinal investigation of advanced L2 capacities The scholars in this volume collectively make the argument that second language acquisition research will be the richer theoretically and empirically if a trajectory toward advancedness is part of its conceptualization right from the beginning and in reverse that advancedness is a particularly interesting acquisitional level at which to probe contemporary theories associated with the longitudinal study of language development Acknowledging that advancedness is increasingly important in our multicultural societies and globalized world the central question explored in the present collection is How does learning over time evolve toward advanced capacities in a second language

Registerial

Expertise in Traditional Chinese Medical Translation Yan Yue, 2025-03-31 Yue's book explores the nature of translation using traditional Chinese medicine TCM and the TCM classic Huangdi Neijing and its various translations. Yue examines in great detail and depth the important factors that cause the differences in the translators' treatment of language indeterminacies. Apart from having multi-faceted and fine-grained linguistic analysis, this book also serves as a good model of methodology in terms of corpus building, contrastive analysis, exemplification and glossing following systemic functional linguistics (SFL) convention. This book is an argument for greater emphasis on the linguistic notion of register in translators' expertise, specifically in the way that professional experience and training with their registerial demands may be the key to semantic decisions forced on a translator by the inevitable vagaries and indeterminacies of establishing a working equivalence across languages and cultures and deep time. It probes the issue in an extreme case: the debate over who is the ideal translator in Chinese medicine translation through various case studies. The result suggests it is possible to demonstrate empirically that clinical experience in translators is likely to have consistent or even measurable consequences. This book will be of interest to three different fields: translators in training, applicable systemic functional linguistics and traditional Chinese medicine communication.
