Chris R. Glass, Rachawan Wongtrirat, Stephanie Buus, 2023-07-03 This book responds to the growing calls among international educators, activists, and students themselves to pay closer attention to the qualitative dimensions of international students' experiences at U.S. colleges and universities. This book outlines deep approaches to the academic and social integration of international students at U.S. colleges and universities. It describes concrete examples of strategies to enhance the international student experience across a wide range of institutional types and explores actions that have enabled colleges and universities to create more inclusive, connected, and purposeful campus environments for international students. It fleshes out the effects of these actions through the first-person narratives of international students themselves. It focuses on reinforcing an institution's existing strengths and capacities to help academic leaders at these institutions to develop comprehensive strategies that will enable the creation of inclusive campus climates for international students. The book combines evidence derived from the national Global Perspective Inventory dataset, the experiences of institutions at the forefront in developing effective strategies, as well as first-person narrative experiences of international students to illustrate the real-life consequences of institutional policies, practice, and programs. One of the aims of this book is to take readers on a journey from community colleges to liberal arts institutions to large public flagship research universities from rural parts of the U.S. to highly populated urban areas in order to raise questions about the impact of the surge of international students in these environments and about the corresponding challenges that confront senior administrators seeking to strengthen and deepen connections for the students. The book explores some of the actions that universities and colleges across the U.S. have taken to create more inclusive, connected, and purposeful campus environments for their international students, placing particular emphasis on the importance of tapping and reinforcing each institution's existing strengths and capacities in the development of strategies that will enable it to create more inclusive campus climates for current and incoming international students and engaging in active collaboration with all departments and offices across the campus with the larger community and most important with the international student community itself.

Joseph Kalimbwe, 2016-10-02 Zambian-born Joseph Kalimbwe writes about Africa's downward spiral political leadership. He tells how the Reagan years in the 1980s must be used by African leaders to solve economic problems. Zambia President Rupiah Banda is condemned for his slow-path economic policies and how the continent struggles to live up to the expectations of the 21st century. He also explains emotionally the impact of the loss of his mother on him and his long-lost father who died when he was 2. He concludes with the factors affecting the education system, including his time at the University of Namibia where he served as President.

The Blushing MBA Feddy Pouideh, 2005-11 Enjoy a funny sneak peek at life inside an Ivy League business school from someone who's been there and lived to tell the tale. Excerpt from The Admissions Interview: I can't remember anything on my resume. Oh my God, I've gone blank. What am I doing here? My pulse is racing, my throat is tight, and I'm sweating. Move out of my way, I have to get out of here. After 20 minutes, my nerves finally begin to calm, which would have been great if the interview hadn't finished in 10. The interviewer concludes with: How do you want to be remembered by your classmates? Remembered. Because this program will surely be the death of me. He hands me his card when we finish. Call me if you have any questions. The interview is over. Over I am numb as I leave his office, stunned that the moment I have worked a lifetime for is now history. Wait. When he said "It's over" was he referring to the interview or to my future in business?

The Blushing MBA is a funny, candid chronicle of one woman's adventure inside an Ivy League business school. It's an inspirational tribute to college graduate school and to anyone who has ever dared to enter the wild world of business.
