Richard Rorty Susan Dieleman, David E. McClean, Paul Showler, 2022-05-05 This book contains diverse and critical reflections on Richard Rorty's contributions to ethics, an aspect of his thought that has been relatively neglected. Together they demonstrate that Rorty offers a compelling and coherent ethical vision. The book's chapters, grouped thematically, explore Rorty's emphasis on the importance of moral imagination, social relations, language, and literature as instrumental for ethical self-transformation, as well as for strengthening what Rorty called social hope, which entails constant work toward a more democratic, inclusive, and cosmopolitan society and world. Several contributors address the ethical implications of Rorty's commitment to a vision of political liberalism without philosophical foundations. Others offer critical examinations of Rorty's claim that our private or individual projects of self-creation can or should be held apart from our public goals of ameliorating social conditions and reducing cruelty and suffering. Some contributors explore hurdles that impede the practical applications of certain of Rorty's ideas. The Ethics of Richard Rorty will appeal to scholars and advanced students interested in American philosophy and ethics.

Come Jog with Me George Whitney DVM, 2011-12-27 Many questions come to mind concerning running and runners and public health. Here are a few: 1. Why do runners live an estimated 2 to 2.5 years longer than non-runners? 2. Why are runners rarely overweight? 3. Among runners, do they have the same incidence of the following problems compared to non-runners, that so far the causes of which are basically unknown: Muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, Parkinson's disease, amelanotic lateral sclerosis, and Alzheimer's disease? 4. Why do women runners have so much less breast cancer than non-runners? 5. Why do runners have so much stronger bones than non-runners? 6. Why do runners have less atherosclerosis and therefore fewer strokes and coronary and cardiac artery disease? 7. Why do runners have more HDL (good) cholesterol than non-runners? 8. Why do runners have lower blood pressure than non-runners? 9. Do running women have fewer children who develop Autism than non-running women? 10. Why do runners have better immune systems than non-runners? 11. Does running enhance the production of endomorphins, serotonin, androgens, estrogens, such as oxytocin, ghrelin, and the enzyme troponin, and many others? 12. Is there an advantage of the profound sleep that comes to those who exercise, as with running, and with no insomnia?

Story by Story Thomas Alderson Davis, Robert Arnold Johnson, 2019-07-12 This volume brings together two authors, one a psychiatrist, one a philosopher, to listen to one another's reading of five stories of what it is like to bear a different mental or physical illness. The beginning story, or anchor, for the conversation that unfolds between them is that of a person subject to recurring spells of catatonia, the uncanniest of human conditions. They discover that truly understanding what an illness is calls for understanding it within the context of who suffers it; that to understand illness is to establish the right relation between what is being suffered and who is suffering it. This deceptively simple way of talking, which is labelled who/what talk, will prove more practical and more clarifying than will terms like mental and physical. Furthermore, it has this additional dividend: it intrinsically resists a temptation toward medical prejudice, the inclination for doctors and other caregivers to lose the who of the sufferer through their focus on the what of her illness. Domestic

Jesus in Paul's Letters: A Pastoral Analysis Edwin

Walhout,2016-07-04 JESUS in PAUL S LETTERS A Pastoral Analysis This project began as an exploration of the somewhat baffling things Paul writes about Jesus in his letters to the churches in Colossae and Ephesus Having completed those studies I turned to the oft misunderstood kenosis passage in Philippians and from there decided to look at all the letters of Paul to see what they meant for Christology Paul is clearly not Christocentric in his theology He is Theocentric so that his Christology is a subset of Theology and his Soteriology becomes a subset of both Theology and Christology Thus trinitarian

Debating Social Rights Conor Gearty,Virginia

Mantouvalou,2010-12-09 Debating Law is a new series that gives scholarly experts the opportunity to offer contrasting perspectives on significant topics of contemporary general interest In this second volume of the series Conor Gearty argues that for rights to work effectively in the wider promotion of social justice they need to be kept as far away as possible from the courts He acknowledges the value of rights language in legal and political debate and accepts that human rights are not solely civil and political with social rights language clearly having a progressive emancipatory dimension However he says that lawyers even well intentioned lawyers damage the achievability of the kind of radical transformation in the priorities of states that a genuine commitment to social rights surely necessitates Virginia Mantouvalou argues that social rights defined as entitlements to the satisfaction of basic needs are as essential for the well being of the individual and the community as long established civil and political rights The real challenge she suggests is how best to give effect to social rights Drawing on examples from around the world she argues for their legalisation and examines the role of courts and the role of legislatures in this process both at a national and a international level
