Extracting Innovations Martin J. Clifford, Robert K. Perrons, Saleem H. Ali, Tim A. Grice, 2018-06-13 This book considers the most contemporary innovations propelling the extractive industries forward while also creating new environmental and social challenges The socio ecological fabric of innovation in the extractive industries is considered through an integrative approach that brings together engineers natural scientists and social scientists academics and practitioners giving an empirically grounded and realistic evaluation of the innovations in this sector It synthesizes a series of questions including

Effective Strategies To Develop Rural Health Workforce In Low and Middle-Income Countries (LMICs) Belinda Gabrielle O'Sullivan, Pratyush Kumar, Ian Couper, Matthew Richard McGrail, 2021-07-29 The Likely Demand and Needs for Medical Officers and Nurse Practitioners in Vanuatu to the Year 2015, 1997 Mathematics Education in a Neocolonial Country: The Case of Papua New Guinea Patricia Paraide, Kay Owens, Charly Muke, Philip Clarkson, Christopher Owens, 2023-01-10

Most education research is undertaken in western developed countries While some research from developing countries does make it into research journals from time to time but these articles only emphasize the rarity of research in developing countries The proposed book is unique in that it will cover education in Papua New Guinea over the millennia Papua New Guinea s multicultural society with relatively recent contact with Europe and the Middle East provides a cameo of the development of education in a country with both a colonial history and a coup less transition to independence Discussion will focus on specific areas of mathematics education that have been impacted by policies research circumstances and other influences with particular emphasis on pressures on education in the last one and half centuries This volume will be one of the few records of this kind in the education research literature as an in depth record and critique of how school mathematics has been grown in Papua New Guinea from the late 1800s and should be a useful addition to graduate programs mathematics education courses history of mathematics as well as the interdisciplinary fields of cross cultural studies scholarship focusing on globalization and post decolonialism linguistics educational administration and policy technology education teacher education and gender studies Public Health Rosemary M. Caron, Joav Merrick, 2014 It is often stated that it takes a village to improve the health of a population This proverb implies that it takes the work of many individuals not necessarily from the same occupation or educational or social background to achieve this goal To improve the health of a population a system comprised of educators community leaders public health and health care practitioners researchers faith based leaders municipal workers and many others working in diverse urban and or rural communities across the globe towards a common goal via evidence based practice policy development education and health literacy initiatives or a combination thereof is required Interprofessional collaborations can be fruitful endeavors with respect to improving health at a population and or individual level However if we examine these interdisciplinary collaborations from a development standpoint not every professional is trained to work with professionals from other disciplines How do we prepare an interprofessional workforce capable of working collaboratively You will find some of the answers in this book

Brownson Professor of Epidemiology, Elizabeth A. Baker Associate Professor of Behavioral Science and Health Education, Terry L. Leet Assistant Professor of Epidemiology, Missouri Kathleen N. Gillespie Associate Professor of Health Management and Policy All at St. Louis University School of Public Health, 2002-09-19 Ideally public health practitioners always incorporate scientific evidence in making management decisions developing policies and implementing programs In reality however these decisions are often based on short term demands rather than long term study and policies and programs are sometimes developed from anecdotal evidence To enhance evidence based practice this book provides practical guidance on how to choose carry out and evaluate evidence based programs and policies in public health settings It deals not only with finding and using scientific evidence but also with implementing and evaluating interventions that generate new evidence on effectiveness Because all these topics are broad and require multi disciplinary skills and perspectives each chapter covers the basic issues and provides multiple examples to illustrate important concepts The book presents a sequential framework for addressing public health issues that includes developing an initial statement of the issue quantifying the issue searching the scientific literature and organizing information developing and prioritizing program options developing an action plan and implementing interventions and evaluating the program or policy

Public Health 101 Richard K. Riegelman, Brenda Kirkwood, 2015 From clean drinking water to seat belts to immunizations the impact of public health on every individual is undeniable For undergraduates an understanding of the foundations of public health is an essential step toward becoming an educated citizen Public Health 101 Healthy People Healthy Populations provides a big picture population perspective on the determinants of health and disease and the tools available to protect and promote health. It examines the full range of options for intervention including use of the healthcare system, the public health system, and society-wide systems such as laws and taxation. Through case studies, vignettes, and extensive examples, readers will come away with a clear understanding of how public health affects them in their everyday lives. They will learn and apply frameworks for thinking about the issues of public health and gain a deeper understanding about the health news they are exposed to each day.

Key Features: Public Health 101 fully implements the curriculum framework, learning objectives, and enduring understandings of undergraduate public health education as recommended by the Association of American Colleges and Universities (AACU) and the Association for Prevention Teaching and Research (APTR). Frameworks for thinking, checklists, and step-by-step examples provide students with hands-on practice. Case studies, vignettes, and extensive illustrations reinforce the materials and provide interactive exercises for classroom discussions, homework, and examinations. A full package of instructor resources is available online at <http://publichealth.jbpub.com/essentialriegelman>.
