Global University Rankings and the Mediatization of Higher Education Michelle Stack, 2016-04-12 Higher Education Institutions simultaneously critique and participate in national and international rankings of universities However this creates a difficult situation since if universities do participate in rankings they acquiesce to a system based in media logics that has little to do with academic norms of research If they do not participate in the rankings they risk losing public funding students and donors in an increasingly competitive and globalized environment This book delves into the influence of journalists business tycoons and multinational corporations in defining what world class is and how it will be measured Rankings provide us with a rich study for understanding how universities define deploy and manage their assets and liabilities in a mediatized globalized economy ABA Journal, 1998-03 The ABA Journal serves the legal profession Qualified recipients are lawyers and judges law students law librarians and associate members of the American Bar Association

Big-Time Sports in American Universities Charles T. Clotfelter, 2019-02-21 For almost a century big time college athletics has been a wildly popular but consistently problematic part of American higher education The challenges it poses to traditional academic values have been recognized from the start but they have grown more ominous in recent decades as cable television has become ubiquitous commercial opportunities have proliferated and athletic budgets have ballooned In the second edition of his influential book Big Time Sports in American Universities Clotfelter continues to examine the role of athletics in American universities building on his argument that commercial sports have become a core function of the universities that engage in them Drawing on recent scandals on large scale college campuses and updates on several high profile court cases Clotfelter brings clear economic analysis to the variety of problems that sports raise for university and public policy providing the basis for the continuation of constructive conversations about the value of big time sports in higher education

The Market Imperative Robert Zemsky, Susan Shaman, 2017-12-22 Thinking about American higher education as an economic market changes everything It is no surprise that college tuition and student debt are on the rise Universities no longer charge tuition to simply cover costs They are market enterprises that charge whatever the market will bear Institutional ambition along with increasing competition for students now shape the economics of higher education In The Market Imperative Robert Zemsky and Susan Shaman argue that too many institutional leaders and policy makers do not understand how deeply the consumer markets they promoted have changed American higher education Instead of functioning as a single integrated industry higher education is in fact a collection of segmented and more or less separate markets These markets have their own distinctive operating constraints and logics especially regarding price But those most responsible for federal higher education policy have made a muck of the enterprise while state policy making has all but disappeared the victim of weak imaginations insufficient funding and an aversion to targeted investment Chapter by chapter this compelling text draws on new data developed by the authors in a Gates Foundation funded project to describe the landscape how the market for higher education distributes students among competing institutions what the job market is looking for how markets differ across the fifty states and how the higher education market determines the kinds of faculty at different kinds of institutions The volume concludes with a three pronged set of policies for making American higher education mission centered as well as market smart Although there is no one size fits all approach for reforming higher education this clearly written book will productively advance understanding of the challenges colleges and universities face by providing a mapping of the configuration of the market for an undergraduate education
