have developed new policies organizational structures and laws in an attempt to prevent death threats and related violence Moreover in the aftermath of 9 11 the U S government and other governments around the world have formulated new policies and organizational structures to deal with the threat of terrorist attacks At the level of interpersonal relations the weakening of social control processes allows individuals to make homicidal threats against people and organizations in different settings This book will address such questions as Under what conditions are individuals able to evade social control by making death threats What factors trigger the response of social control mechanisms to death threat makers How effective are the institutional responses to death threats At the macrolevel this book assesses how governments and paramilitary and terrorist groups also employ death threats to achieve their desired social and political objectives

BOOK JACKET A Social Theory of International Law Kazuko Hirose,2003-01-01 There has long been an advocacy for the sociology of international law and yet it has never been constructed so systematically and axiomatically as in this book Based on vital terms such as action and system this book has conducted an investigation into the auspices or the fundamental international sociological conditions over which international law is built and accordingly into how international law can control global relations The significance of this work lies in its aim of showing by the application of a consistent logic how complex observed phenomena can be explained and understood on the basis of certain shared fundamental perceptions drawn from common experience By asking how a state acts in a complex system that consists of at least two subsystems having different goals and different logics two specific issues are discussed 1 The relationship between domestic and international law namely that between Article 9 of the Constitution of Japan and the UN Charter especially the provisions for a collective security system as mentioned in chapter VII 2 The relationship between international law and international politics namely the relationship between the prohibition of the use of nuclear weapons and the logic of nuclear deterrence

National Criminal Justice Thesaurus ,1993 The Treatment of Prisoners under International Law Nigel Rodley,Matt Pollard,2009-08-13 This is the third edition of the pioneering work that has become the standard text in the field The first edition was one of the earliest to establish that the newly developing international law of human rights could be set down as any other branch of international law It also incorporates the complementary fields of international humanitarian law and international criminal law while addressing the problems associated with their interaction with human rights law The book is more than a descriptive analysis of the field It acknowledges areas of unclarity or where developments may be embryonic Solutions are offered Recent developments have confirmed the value of solutions proposed in this edition and the previous one Central to most of the chapters is the human rights norm of most salience in the treatment of prisoners namely the prohibition of torture and cruel inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment The early chapters focus on the period of first detention when detainees are most at risk of having information or confessions however unreliable extracted by unlawful means Voices contemplating the legitimacy of such treatment to combat terrorism have been heard in the wake of the atrocities of 11 September 2001 The book finds that the evidence clearly suggests that the absolute prohibition of such treatment remains firm Other chapters deal with problems of poor prison conditions and of certain extraordinary penalties notably corporal and capital punishment A chapter explores ethical codes for members of professions capable of inflicting or preventing the prohibited behaviour police and medical and legal professionals Chapters are also devoted to the extreme practice of enforced disappearance and the contribution of the new convention on this phenomenon as well as to extra legal executions
