The Next Instalment Wendy Roy, 2019-11-28 What happens next? That was the question asked of early twentieth century authors Nellie L. McClung, L. M. Montgomery and Mazo de la Roche whose stories and novels appeared serially and kept readers and publishers in a state of anticipation Each author answered through the writing and dissemination of further instalments McClung's Pearlie Watson trilogy 1908 1921 Montgomery's Anne of Green Gables books 1908 1939 and de la Roche's Jalna novels 1927 1960 were read avidly not just as sequels but as serials in popular and literary newspapers and magazines A number of the books were also adapted to stage film and television The Next Instalment argues that these three Canadian women writers all born in the same decade of the late nineteenth century were influenced by early twentieth century publication marketing and reading practices to become heavily invested in the cultural phenomenon of the continuing story A close look at their serials sequels and adaptations reveals that rather than existing as separate cultural productions each is part of a cultural and material continuum that encourages repeated consumption through development and extension of the originary story This work considers the effects that each mode of dissemination of a narrative has on the other

The Canadian Short Story Reingard M. Nischik, 2007 Beginning in the 1890s reaching its first full realization by modernist writers in the 1920s and brought to its heyday during the Canadian Renaissance starting in the 1960s the short story has become Canada's flagship genre It continues to attract the country's most accomplished and innovative writers today among them Margaret Atwood Mavis Gallant Alice Munro Carol Shields and many others Yet in contrast to the stature and popularity of the genre and the writers who partake in it surprisingly little literary criticism and theory has been devoted to the Canadian short story This collection redresses that imbalance by providing the first collection of critical interpretations of a range of thirty well known and often anthologized Canadian short stories from the genre's beginnings through the twentieth century. A historical survey of the genre introduces the volume and a timeline comparing the genre's development in Canada, the US and Great Britain via representative examples completes it. The collection is geared both to specialists in and to students of Canadian literature. For the latter it is of particular benefit that the volume provides not only a collection of interpretations but a comprehensive introduction to the history of the Canadian short story.

Reingard M Nischik is professor and chair of American Literature at the University of Constance, Germany. Coming to Canada
