

The Wonder of the Titanic

The Titanic was a British luxury passenger liner. It was built by a famous, world shipbuilding company called White Star Line based in Belfast, Ireland. The ship was built to be the fastest ship in the world. It was designed for luxury travel. Known as the Millionaire's Special, the Titanic's passengers were rich and famous. Unfortunately, the ship became famous for all the wrong reasons. It sank during its maiden voyage to New York City on April 15, 1912.

The Titanic was an amazing ship. It was part of a new class of ships designed to be the largest steamships of all time. The Titanic was 882.5 feet long and 91.3 feet wide. There were over 600 staterooms ranging from first to third-class accommodations. There were ornate decorations, including a grand staircase serving as a club, a first-class dining saloon, four theaters, and a luxurious heated swimming pool. There were also harbor shops, a library, and a sports court. A one-way first-class ticket on board the Titanic would have cost $4,000, the equivalent of $60,000 today.

The sinking of the Titanic is an epic, extraordinary story for what happened when humans made the mistake of being overly proud and confident. The ship was spotted, with focused attention on all of the first-class passengers.

It is estimated only 20 lifelines, enough to save 1,178 people. The total number of passengers and crew on the Titanic was 2,201.

Throughout the evening of April 14, the Titanic started to receive wireless radio warnings about reports of ice from other ships. The captain of the ship, Edward Smith, changed course and headed
