Tales Of The 319th:

Tales of The 319th Joseph W. Connaughton, 2014-12 Men of Courage are not built on brash talk They are built by shared confrontation of fear and challenge These are the men of the 319th Bomb Group soldiers who fought in Africa Europe and the Pacific against all three Axis powers Their chronicler Joseph W Joe Connaughton was a young man who dreamed of flying as the dark clouds of war touched the shores of America Those dreams brought him from college life in Tuscaloosa Alabama to the Army Air Corps in Roswell and the aircrew culture he grew to love He graduated an officer from the Army s bombardier training and was ordered to Sardinia where he arrived in May of 1944 for posting with the 319th which had already earned a reputation for daring raids and accurate bombing Along with his fellow aviators the author s journey to and with the 319th Bomb Group was a mutual journey of indelible experiences that enriched not only their bond but also the future with their families and professions Tales of the 319th is a series of chronological stories based on interviews of the men who survived as well as those of the author The Tales reveal their beginning as well as the sacrifices and trials that hardened these men of the air and brought about their ultimate success Experience their journey through the vivid description of battle and the revelry and strength of camaraderie What emerges is a ringing endorsement of the intelligence perseverance and yes courage of these men of what many view as the finest generation Included in this memoir are numerous photos and maps to bring a greater understanding of not only the emotions of these young men and their leaders but also the background canvas of military strategy and information necessary to tell the tales Among the many luminaries of this famous group were one of the original Mercury 7 astronauts Donald Deke Slayton a good friend of Joe s their respected commander and later four star Air Force General Randall Randy Holzapple and pioneering television moderator for CBS Meet the Press William Monroe Redlands in World War I Ann Cordy Deegan, Maria Carrillo Colato, Nathan D.

Gonzales, Don McCue, 2017-02-06 Upon declaration of war on April 6 1917 Redlands mobilized immediately The local National Guard Company G departed on April 4 to Arcadia and quickly relocated to San Diego Residents worked to establish a chapter of the American Red Cross and formed war committees through the YMCA YWCA and Salvation Army Thousands of residents pulled together to serve the war at home donating their time and orchestrating bond drives More than eight hundred locals served in the military and Redlanders could be found fighting in every major battle involving American troops Thirty nine men and one woman made the ultimate sacrifice This book commemorates the community s perseverance and sacrifices during the Great War United States Air Force and Its Antecedents James T. Controvich, Martin

Gordon, 2004-06-24 This bibliography lists published and printed unit histories for the United States Air Force and Its Antecedents including Air Divisions Wings Groups Squadrons Aviation Engineers and the Women s Army Corps World War I Army Training by San Francisco Bay Barbara Wilcox, 2016-01-11 In 1917 Stanford University leased a portion of its land to allow the creation of Camp Fremont headquartered in present day Menlo Park That brought the war into the Bay

Area's backyard Soldiers received a welcome reception and locals embraced the potential economic opportunities. However, the military presence also revealed the conflict Americans felt over the war. Residents threatened conscientious objectors within their community while the government mollified fears of the vice that often followed troops in training. Armistice came earlier than expected and many soldiers trained for combat they never saw. But all contributed to the growth and change that arrived with the modern era. Author Barbara Wilcox tells Camp Fremont's story of adaptability, bravery, and extraordinary accomplishment during the Great War.

Marauder Men John O. Moench, 1999 The True Story of Catch-22 Patricia Chapman Meder, 2012-08-21

The real-life companion to the literary classic written and illustrated by the daughter of the 340th Bomb Group's commander, Catch 22's Col. Cathcart. After the publication of his bestselling novel Catch 22, Joseph Heller usually chose to deny that any of his richly drawn characters were based on his actual war mates. However, to those who served with Heller in the 340th Bomb Group, the novel's characters were indeed recognizable: the hard-drinking, vengeful, and disillusioned Chief White Halfoat, young sliced-in-half Kid Sampson, shrieking, frenzied Hungry Joe, Col. Cathcart, Gen. Dreedle Yossarian, and that capitalist supreme, Milo Minderbinder. In this book, written and colorfully illustrated by the daughter of the 340th Bomb Group's commander, Col. Willis Chapman, we finally encounter the real men and combat missions on which the novel was based. While Heller's fully developed characters stand solely, solidly, and uniquely on their own merits, The True Story of Catch 22 proves that any resemblance to persons living or dead is in fact actual. This three-part book blends fact, fancy, and history with full-blown original illustrations and rare, previously unpublished photos of these daring USAAF flyers and their Corsica-based B-25 Mitchells. Along with descriptions of the 340th's real wartime experiences, the work includes twelve men of the Bomb Group relating richly told tales of their own. In these pages, it is a great pleasure to finally see the real story behind the fictionalized account and to be even more impressed. Scott Carpenter, NASA astronaut.

With the fate of the free world hanging in the balance, women pilots went aloft to serve their nation. A soaring tale in which, at long last, these daring World War II pilots gain the credit they deserve. Liza Mundy, New York Times bestselling author of Code Girls. A powerful story of reinvention, community, and ingenuity born out of global upheaval. Newsday. When the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor in December 1941, Cornelia Fort was already in the air. At twenty-two, Fort had escaped Nashville's debutante scene for a fresh start as a flight instructor in Hawaii. She and her student were in the middle of their lesson when the bombs began to fall, and they barely made it back to ground that morning. Still, when the U.S. Army Air Forces put out a call for women pilots to aid the war effort, Fort was one of the first to respond. She became one of just over 1,100 women from across the nation to make it through the Army's rigorous selection process and earn her silver wings The brainchild of trailblazing pilots Nancy Love and Jacqueline Cochran the Women Airforce Service Pilots WASP gave women like Fort a chance to serve their country and to prove that women aviators were just as skilled as men While not authorized to serve in combat the WASP helped train male pilots for service abroad and ferried bombers and pursuits across the country Thirty eight WASP would not survive the war But even taking into account these tragic losses Love and Cochran s social experiment seemed to be a resounding success until with the tides of war turning Congress clipped the women s wings The program was disbanded the women sent home But the bonds they d forged never failed and over the next few decades they came together to fight for recognition as the military veterans they were and for their place in history
