The Academy and Literature ,1878 Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature ,1893 Richard Marsh Minna Vuohelainen, 2015-08-26 Richard Marsh Richard Bernard Heldmann 1857 1915 was a bestselling versatile and prolific author of gothic crime adventure romantic and comic fiction This book the first on Marsh establishes his credentials as a significant agent within the fin de siècle gothic revival Marsh's work spans a range of gothic modes including the canonical fin de siècle subgenres of urban and imperial gothic and gothic inflected sensation and supernatural fiction but also rarer hybrid genres such as the comic gothic and the occult romance His greatest success came in 1897 when he published his bestselling invasion narrative The Beetle A Mystery a novel that articulated many of the key themes of fin de siècle urban gothic and outsold its close rival Bram Stoker's

Dracula well into the twentieth century The present work extends studies of Marsh's literary production beyond The Beetle contending that in addition to his undoubted interest in non normative gender and ethnic identities Marsh was a writer with an acute sense of spatiality whose fiction can be read productively through the lens of spatial theory Master the Police Officer Exam, 19th edition Peterson's, 2015-04-07 Master the Police Officer Exam offers thorough preparation for anyone looking for a career in law enforcement This comprehensive guide provides 5 full length practice tests thorough review of question types on the written test along with tips for the oral board interview video based exam and psychological evaluation Also includes up to date information on eligibility requirements the screening process and job applications along with a sample physical fitness course including basic principles detailed exercises workout schedules and ways to measure your progress This is the complete guide to starting your career in law enforcement Army-Navy-Air Force Register and Defense Times, 1905 Father-Daughter Incest in Twentieth-Century American Literature Christine Grogan, 2016-10-03 The first major study to challenge the narrow definition of post traumatic stress disorder PTSD by rereading six American literary texts this book argues for the importance of literature in representing not just circumscribed singular traumatic events as Cathy Caruth argued in the late nineties but for giving voice to chronic and cumulative or complex traumatic experiences This interdisciplinary study traces the development of father daughter incest narratives published in the last hundred years from male authored fiction to female authored memoir bringing new readings to Fitzgerald's Tender Is the Night Ellison's Invisible Man and the Dylan Farrow Woody Allen case This study builds on the work of those ushering in a second wave of trauma theory which has argued that the difficulty of speaking about a traumatic experience is not necessarily caused by neurobiological changes that prevent victims from recalling details Rather it's from social and political repercussions In other words they argue that many who experience trauma aren't unable to deliver accounts they fear the results There is a significant gender component to trauma whose implications along with those of race and class have largely gone unexamined in the first wave of trauma theory Exploring two additional questions about articulating trauma this book asks what happens when the voice of trauma is crying out from what Toni Morrison has called the most delicate most vulnerable member of society a female child and second what happens when the trauma is not just a time limit event but chronic and cumulative experiences Some traumatic experiences namely father daughter incest are culturally reduced to the untellable and yet accounts of paternal incest are readily available in American literature This book is written in part as a response to the psychological community which failed to include complex PTSD in the latest edition of the DSM DSM 5 denying victims many of whom are father daughter incest survivors the validation and recognition they deserve and leaving many misdiagnosed and thereby mistreated Assembly, 1987 The Century Dictionary and Cyclopaedia: The Century dictionary ... prepared under the superintendence of William Dwight Whitney ... rev. & enl. under the superintendence of Benjamin E. Smith, 1911 Between Duty and Design John J. Taylor, 2014 Annotation The architectural work of Joseph John

Talbot Hobbs is impossible to overlook in Perth and Western Australia. It dominates public spaces as well as domestic and business streetscapes. A strong sense of duty determined that the diminutive fifty year old architect soldier J J Talbot Hobbs would in 1914 voyage to the First World War where he survived the horrors of Gallipoli and the Western Front. Hobbs' powerful organisational skills positioned him as Australia's highest ranking soldier in Europe after the Great War. Organiser of Australian war memorials in France and Belgium, his stellar designs both there and throughout Western Australia are now largely forgotten. Who was J J Talbot Hobbs that he was considered to be of such importance at the time of his death that a memorial was built in one of the most prominent places in the state's capital city of Perth? Between Duty and Design is a meticulous biography of the man soldier and architect highlighting his place as a citizen of national importance. Theaters of Time and Space Jordan D. Marché, 2005. Every year millions of Americans visit planetariums and are captivated by their strikingly realistic portrayal of the night sky. Today it is indeed difficult to imagine astronomy education without these magnificent celestial theaters. But projection planetariums first developed in Germany have been a part of American museum pedagogy only since the early twentieth century and were not widespread until the 1960s. In this unique social history, former planetarium director and historian of science Jordan D. March II offers the first complete account of the community of individuals and institutions that during the period between 1930 and 1970 made planetariums the popular teaching aids they are today. March addresses issues such as the role of gender and social developments within the planetarium community, institutional patronage and the popularization of science. He reveals how at different times various groups including financial donors, amateur scientists and government officials viewed the planetarium as an instrument through which they could shape public understanding and perceptions of astronomy and space science. Offering an insightful wide ranging look into the origins of an institution that has fascinated millions, Theaters of Time and Space brings new perspectives to how one educational community changed the cultural complexion of science, helped shape public attitudes toward the U.S. space program and even contributed to policy decisions regarding allocations for future space research. Public Health Reports, 1965. Law Institute Journal, 1985. The Architect and Contract Reporter, 1912.
