Innovating Counseling for Self- and Career Construction Jacobus Gideon (Kobus) Maree, 2020-06-29 This book sets out to provide context for innovating counseling for self and career construction It gives readers insight into the theory underlying an innovative integrative qualitative quantitative approach to career counseling Three key ideas recur throughout the book First the idea of not dispensing advice to people instead enabling them to advise themselves Second the idea of listening for instead of to people's stories to help them choose and construct careers and themselves and shape their career identities Third the idea of helping people connect what they know about themselves consciously with what they are aware of subconsciously The book confronts some of the main challenges posed by Work 4.0 on the workplace but also foreshadows the imminent advent of Work 5.0 It endeavors to promote career counselors ability to help people thrive at a time when many speculate that work itself is at risk occupational contexts no longer hold workers in the way they used to and the coronavirus pandemic is disrupting the workplace

Women Who Kill Lenore Walker, David Shapiro, Amanda Temares, Brandi Diaz, 2024-10-11 Women rarely kill How and why a woman can be driven to lethal action is often highly complex and misunderstood Many of these women who act lethally are driven to such a point as a last resort following prolonged experiences of child abuse and or domestic violence This book offers insights into these women detailing their motivations their patterns of violence and how they can be aided through psychological evaluation and proper expert testimony The chapters in this volume also include discussions of women who did not kill but were punished as if they had This collection of writings seeks to fill the gaps in research on women who kill This book is beneficial to students and researchers of Psychology including Forensic Psychology It will further aid the field of criminal justice as well as policymakers such that clinicians can provide an enhanced understanding on various psychological and demographic factors which contribute to situations where battered women reach a point where the only option to ensure survival is lethal self defense Finally this book offers clarity as it points out the areas in which the legal system has failed these women The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Aggression Maltreatment Trauma

Evaluating Indigenous African Tradition for Cultural Reconstruction and Mind Decolonization Durodolu, Oluwale Olumide, Chisita, Collence T., Marutha, Ngoako Solomon, Familusi, Olumuyiwa Olusesan, 2024-08-22 Evaluating Indigenous African Tradition for Cultural Reconstruction and Mind Decolonization is edited by Oluwale O Durodolu and is an insightful book that challenges the derogatory portrayal of African Traditional Religion ATR and highlights the need for cultural reconstruction and mind decolonization The book explores the derogatory descriptions that have been used to describe ATR and argues that subjecting religion to logical inquiry diminishes the essence of worship and promotes disbelief The book examines the relevance of indigenous African tradition to cultural reconstruction and evaluates the place of African culture in the global context. The author argues that upholding the general principle of African Traditional belief which upholds communalism and morality can address problems such as corruption, poverty and unemployment in the African continent. This book is an essential resource for academics, students, researchers and anyone interested in understanding the relevance of African Traditional Religion in contemporary times and the need for cultural reconstruction and mind decolonization for the betterment of the African continent and the world at large.

Resurgence and Revalorization of Indigenous Knowledge Systems in the Contemporary Society Masenya, Tlou Maggie, Bhuda, Monicca Thulisile, 2025-05-08. Indigenous knowledge is the comprehensive body of knowledge that locals accumulate from life experience, unofficial research and close observation of their surroundings within a particular culture. It connects the entirety of nature and the components that sustain life to the survival of every human being. Additionally, it gives specific community conditions in respect to the environment and offers workable answers to people's problems. As a result, by preserving indigenous knowledge systems, indigenous knowledge may provide value to the community by offering innovative solutions to social, environmental and economic issues. Resurgence and Revalorization of Indigenous Knowledge Systems in the Contemporary Society explores the role of indigenous knowledge in the contemporary society. Furthermore, it discusses the importance of preserving and sharing indigenous knowledge for community development. Covering topics such as epistemic diversity, traditional load and indigenous curricula, this book is an excellent resource for sociologists, policymakers, government officials, environmentalists, educators, records managers, professionals, researchers, scholars, academicians and more.

Knowledge and Change in African Universities Michael Cross, amasa ndofirepi, 2017-01-28. While African universities retain their core function as primary institutions for advancement of knowledge, they have undergone fundamental changes in this regard. These changes have been triggered by a multiplicity of factors, including the need to address past economic and social imbalances, higher education expansion alongside demographic and economic growth concerns, and student throughput and success. With the realization that greater participation has not meant greater equity, constraining these changes is largely the failure to recognize the encroachment of the profit motive into the academy or a shift from a public good knowledge learning regime to a neo-liberal knowledge learning regime. Neo-liberalism, with its emphasis on the economic and market function of the university rather than the social function, is increasingly destabilizing higher education, particularly in the domain of knowledge making, making it increasingly unresponsive to local social and cultural needs. Corporate organizational practices, commodification and commercialization of knowledge dictated by market ethics dominate university practices in Africa, with negative impact on professional values, norms and beliefs. Under such circumstances, African humanist progressive virtues, e.g. social solidarity, compassion, positive human relations and citizenship, democratic principles, equity and social justice, and the commitment to decolonization ideals guided by altruism and common good are under serious threat. The book goes a long way in unraveling how African universities can respond to these challenges at the levels of institutional management academic scholarship the structure of knowledge production and distribution institutional culture policy and curriculum

Information, Knowledge, and Technology for Teaching and Research in Africa Dennis Ocholla, Omwoyo Bosire

Onyancha, Aderonke Olaitan Adesina, 2024-08-27 This book focuses on information seeking and the knowledge economy for teaching and research in Africa. The book first explores the evolution and current state of information seeking behavior research, demonstrating its importance in informing practice, policy, and design of information systems. Despite the informal sector's substantial contributions to the national economy in Uganda, there is a lack of studies delving into its information needs as well as an information gap in government, NGOs, and other stakeholders. The book proposes that an appropriate information behavior model for information-poor communities such as informal entrepreneurs must be grounded on oral traditions and indigenous knowledge and should be sensitive to poverty, infrastructure, and illiteracy. The negative impact of the lack of financial literacy skills for women entrepreneurs is investigated, and solutions for this problem are suggested, including regular assessments of women entrepreneurs' financial literacy skills and the introduction of training courses. The role of academic libraries in universities, library services for students with disabilities, and accessibility of library services to students with disabilities is discussed, and theoretical models for enhancing service in academic libraries are presented. The book highlights the specific challenges and opportunities related to information literacy for secondary schools and concludes by examining the rapid changes in library and information science research in South Africa. In Pursuit of Epistemic

Healing in South African Universities Wanelisa Xaba, 2025-09-30 This book demonstrates the epistemic challenges in the South African education system and asks readers to think critically about the university's role in a decolonial future. Wanelisa Xaba reveals how Western colonial educational models severed indigenous ways of knowing and learning across the Global South and settler colonial contexts. Presenting narratives capturing ongoing histories of violence, this book shows how Black South African students navigate intersecting identities of race, class, gender, and spirituality within university settings. It shows how racial discrimination from fellow students, academics, and staff, coupled with discriminatory language policies, financial exclusion, and violent colonial curricula, affects Black students' wellbeing on university campuses. Xaba argues that these intersecting colonial violences mirror spiritual violence, hinder their holistic citizenship in South African universities, and result in psycho-spiritual disease. By centring Black students' voices, this book provides crucial insights for educators, policymakers, activists, healers, and institutions committed to creating affirming academic spaces and epistemic healing. It is an insightful read for scholars researching decoloniality in higher education, as well as students of feminist studies, decolonial theory, educational justice, and critical university studies. Global Agricultural and Food Marketing in a Global Context: Advancing Policy, Management, and Innovation

Maiwashe-Tagwi, Aluwani, Mawela, Ailweli Solomon, Chauke, Phineas Khazamula, 2023-03-20 Over 70% of food production is in the hands of farmers; however, numerous studies have shown that smallholder farmers do not have access to markets. The reasons for this failure have been attributed to a lack of financial resources and infrastructure. To date, no one has questioned the role that graduates, academics, agricultural economists, and agricultural extension officials play in the plight of market access. Global Agricultural and Food Marketing in a Global Context

Advancing Policy Management and Innovation discusses key aspects of the agricultural marketing context including the policy environment the available local markets and how they operate the conditions and requirements for international trade the logistic system operations and the technology developments in marketing Covering topics such as produce food production and digital marketing this reference work is ideal for farmers government officials policymakers researchers scholars academicians practitioners educators and students
