- A) Ova quickly degenerate and most are absorbed in the body before the age of 12.
- B) The ovaries at birth contain all of the ova that a woman will have.
- C) Ova aggregate, causing millions to be contained in a storage site called a follicle.
- D) Follicles produce only estrogen; the uterus produces progesterone. - CORRECT ANSWERS b

It would be important to explain that the woman's ova do not increase or decrease from birth to childbearing years. The nurse will stress that all the ova that a woman will have will be present at birth. The patient should understand that if she does not ovulate 1 month or for several months, it is not because she has done something to her body to cause this. Ova slowly degenerate over a lifetime or they are released once a month until menopause is complete. Each ovum is contained in a storage site called a follicle, which produces the female sex hormones, estrogen and progesterone.
