interrelationship between public law and private law the theoretical and conceptual foundations of human rights law and the law of torts the nature and functions of the damages remedy the connection between rights and remedies the intersection of domestic and international law and the impact of damages liability on public funds and public administration The book was the winner of the 2016 SLS Peter Birks Prize for Outstanding Legal Scholarship and the 2018 Inner Temple New Authors Book Prize

Police service strength Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Home Affairs Committee, 2010-01-26 The Home Affairs Committee says that faced with the prospect of funding cuts the police service will have to fundamentally re think the way in which it provides back office functions in order to support the front line It says across the board the service needs more support from Government to allow the service to find new ways of maximising service levels and efficiency such as involving the private sector or exploring force mergers Although figures show overall rises in both the number of police officers and the number of police staff employed across the service over the past five years this varied significantly across forces with 13 forces reporting a reduction over the same period On the basis of provisional financial information from the Government some forces are planning to cut officer numbers in the next financial year The position after 2011 is unclear as the Government has given no indication of funding settlements after that but all forces believe they will have to make significant spending cuts The Committee believes it may be time to review the entire means by which money is allocated to forces as the distribution of the police national grant is seen as a barrier to maximising resources It has become clear to the Committee that voluntary mergers can enable forces to make substantial savings And in the right circumstances the private sector can provide the police with expertise they may lack value for money in service delivery and a source of up front investment

Policing Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Home Affairs Committee, 2010 This report examines the proposal contained in the consultation paper Policing in the 21st century reconnecting police and the people Cm 7925 ISBN 9780101792523 for the introduction in England and Wales of elected Police and Crime Commissioners and the creation of Police and Crime Panels in each force area to scrutinise the Commissioners The Commissioners would replace Police Authorities and be responsible for holding Chief Constables to account The first elections are scheduled for May 2012 Members of the Committee held widely differing views about the principle of elected Commissioners but this inquiry seeks to determine how these proposals can best be delivered The Committee believes there should be a cooling off period of four years if a former senior police officer decides to stand as a Police and Crime Commissioner in the same area in which they have served This restriction is necessary because otherwise they could be in the position of scrutinising decisions they had made while still in office Commissioners should be responsible for the budget staff estate and other assets in their force area Also recommended is a need for greater clarity on what is meant by operational independence there is currently no statutory definition of operational independence and it should be defined in a written memorandum of understanding between the Home Secretary Chief Constables and Police and Crime Commissioners

The Police and Crime Panels should be comprised primarily of elected representatives from Councils in the force area but also of a significantly smaller number of independent members

European Tort Law C. C. van Dam, 2013-03-21 This textbook provides insight into the differences commonalities and mutual influence of the tort law systems of various European jurisdictions bringing together national tort law comparative law EU law and human rights law

Tort Law and the Legislature TT Arvind, Jenny Steele, 2012-12-21 The study of the law of tort is generally preoccupied by case law while the fundamental impact of legislation is often overlooked At a jurisprudential level there is an unspoken view that legislation is generally piecemeal and at best self contained and specific at worst dependent on the whim of political views at a particular time With a different starting point this volume seeks to test such notions illustrating among other things the widespread and lasting influence of legislation on the shape and principles of the law of tort the variety of forms of legislation and the complex nature of political and policy concerns that may lie behind their enactment the sometimes unexpected consequences of statutory reform and the integration not only of statutory rules but also of legislative policy into the operation of tort law today The apparently sharp distinction between judicially created private law principles and democratically enacted legislative rules and policies is therefore questioned and it is argued that to describe the principles of the law of tort without referring to statute is potentially highly misleading This book shows that legislation is important not only because of the way it varies or replaces case law but because it also deeply influences the intrinsic character of that law providing some of its most familiar characteristics The book provides the first extended interpretation of legislative intervention in the law of tort Each of the chapters by leading tort scholars deals with an aspect of the influence of legislation on the law of tort While the nature sources and extent of legislative influence in personal injury law is an essential feature of the collection other significant areas of tort law are explored including tort in the context of commercial law labour law regulation and the welfare state Essays on the Compensation Act 2006 and Human Rights Act 1998 bring the current state of the interplay between tort politics and legislation to the forefront In all of these contexts contributors explore the deeper lessons that can be learned about the nature of the law of tort and its changing role and functions over time Cited with approval in the Singapore Court of Appeal by VK Rajah JA in See Toh Siew Kee vs Ho Ah Lam Ferrocement Pte Ltd and others 2013 SGCA 29
