Transforming Higher Education in Asia and Africa Fred M. Hayward,2020-03-01 Analyzes twelve strategic planning efforts in higher education in eight countries in Asia and Africa Drawing on over fifty years of on the ground experience Fred M Hayward s Transforming Higher Education in Asia and Africa analyzes change processes in higher education in eight Asian and African countries The twelve cases range from the push to upgrade and transform higher education in Afghanistan in the midst of a war to the successful struggle against apartheid in South African institutions as well as thwarted efforts in Sierra Leone and Madagascar Providing both practical lessons learned and hope for communities globally Hayward demonstrates that higher education change and even transformation which is more fundamental and structural can occur even in the most difficult environments Successful transformation requires well crafted strategic and budget plans with careful implementation monitoring and effective leadership at multiple levels Yet also critical are a commitment to human development a desire for freedom and belief in democracy and recognition that high quality higher education is essential to national development This book provides detailed and informative accounts of system transformation policymaking leadership and development in several developing countries These areas are largely neglected in the literature

It also provides an account of the value of coordination and planning in developing effective higher education systems and institutions. It is clear that the author has long experience and expertise in the topics and regions addressed. Brendan Cantwell, Michigan State University. The Bloomsbury Handbook of Postcolonial Print Cultures, Toral Jatin Gajarawala, Neelam Srivastava, Rajeswari Sunder Rajan, Jack Webb, 2023-08-10. The texts that make up postcolonial print cultures are often found outside the archival catalogue and in lesser examined repositories such as personal collections, the streets or appendages to established collections. This volume examines the published and unpublished writing, magazines, pamphlets, paratexts, advertisements, cartoons, radio and street art that serve as the intellectual forces behind opposition to colonial orders, as meditations on the futures of embryonic nation states and as visions of new forms of equality. The print cultures examined here are necessarily anti-institutional; they serve as a counterpoint to the colonial archive and relatedly to more traditional genres and text formats coming out of large-scale publishers. This means that much of the primary material analyzed in this book has not been scrutinized before. Many of these print productions articulate collective liberation projects with origins in the grassroots. They include debates around the shape of the postcolonial nation and the new state formation that necessarily draw on a diverse and contentious public sphere of opinion. Their rhetoric ranges from the reformist to the revolutionary. Reflecting the diversity, indeed the disorderliness, of postcolonial print cultures, this book covers local, national and transnational cultures from Asia, Africa, Europe and the Americas. Its wide-ranging essays offer a nuanced and taken-together definitive though that is not to say comprehensive or systematic study of a global phenomenon: postcolonial print cultures as a distinct literary field. The chapters recover the efforts of writers, readers and publishers to produce a postcolonialism from below and thereby offer a range of fresh perspectives on the meaning and history of postcolonialism.
