Bantle, G.

Slama,2006 Over the next decade the global number of people with diabetes and at risk of diabetes and cardiovascular disease is expected to grow by 25% largely driven by the rising prevalence of obesity and inactivity The problem is especially serious in Asia where the WHO predicts that in less than a decade 60% of the worldwide population with diabetes will be found In order to avoid that the disease turns into a huge economic burden individuals at risk must be identified and prevention and suitable treatment interventions implemented Conceding that the optimal diet for diabetes has yet to be defined and that nutrition and lifestyle management must be individualized to enhance the potential for a successful outcome this publication examines the impact of lifestyle which includes both nutritional management and physical activity in the prevention and treatment of diabetes Among the topics addressed are the dysmetabolic syndrome glycemic effect of carbohydrates glycemic control and beyond diabetes in the life cycle as well as the role of drugs and dietary therapy Written by leading experts in the field the papers collected in this publication contain a wealth of information for nutritionists dietitians physicians and epidemiologists

Dietary Fiber George V. Vahouny,David Kritchevsky,2012-12-06 Only 15 years ago a conference on dietary fiber let alone an international conference would have been considered an extremely unlikely and in fact an unthinkable event Yet in recent years a number of such conferences have taken place at the international level and in different parts of the world the conference of which the present volume is an outgrowth is the second to have been held in Washington D C This extraordinary development of interest in a hitherto largely neglected component of diet has been reflected by a veritable explosion of scientific literature with published articles increasing 40 fold from around ten to over 400 per year within the decade 1968 1978 Not only has the growth of interest in and knowledge of fiber made it perhaps the most rapidly developing aspect of nutritional science in recent history if not in all time but epidemiologic studies relating fiber intake to disease patterns subsequently broadened to include other food components have been largely responsible for the current concept of diseases characteristic of modern Western culture and lifestyle The potential importance of this realization is forcefully underlined by the considered judgment of Thomas MacKeown epidemiologist and medical historian of Birmingham University England
