F. Davalos,1993 Guidelines for the design of stress laminated timber decks have been published by AASHTO but they do not provide comprehensive information on materials construction and inspection Therefore this document presents 1 background information on timber bridge materials and their quality control 2 a comprehensive step by step design procedure based on the 1991 AASHTO Guide Specification and 3 guidelines for construction field monitoring inspection and maintenance procedures Potential fabrication problems are discussed and an inspection checklist is included      Department of the Interior and related agencies appropriations for fiscal year 1989 United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies,1988      Guidelines for Design, Installation, and Maintenance of a Waterproof Wearing Surface for Timber Bridge Decks ,2001 To enhance long term timber bridge performance timber material must be protected from moisture Wearing surfaces made of asphalt pavement with and without a waterproof membrane have been used to provide protection from moisture on timber decks This type of wearing surface also protects the deck from other damage while providing a smooth skid resistant surface However the long term performance of timber bridges has often not been satisfactory as a result of cracking of the wearing surface or separation of the asphalt or membrane from the deck Cracking or separation allows moisture migration to the timber deck and decreases ride quality To improve the performance of a wearing surface it must be designed installed and maintained properly This document provides guidelines for the proper design installation and maintenance of a waterproof wearing surface for timber bridge decks The design section includes material descriptions and asphalt mixture recommendations The installation section presents material testing field inspection detailed drawings and errors to avoid The maintenance section explains the typical signs of distress and corrective procedures
