Growing awareness of environmental issues has led to increasing demand for goods produced from natural products including natural fibres. The two volume Handbook of natural fibres is an indispensable tool in understanding the diverse properties and applications of these important materials. Volume 2 Processing and applications focuses on key processing techniques for the improvement and broader application of natural fibres. Part one reviews processing techniques for natural fibres. Silk production and the future of natural silk manufacture are discussed as well as techniques to improve the flame retardancy of natural fibres and chemical treatments to improve natural fibre properties. Ultraviolet blocking properties, enzymatic treatment and electrokinetic properties are also discussed. Part two goes on to investigate applications of natural fibres including automotive applications, geotextiles, paper and packaging and natural fibre composites. NFCs for the construction and automotive industries. The use of flax and hemp textiles made from jute and coir, antimicrobial natural fibres and biomimetic textile materials are also considered before a final discussion of enhancing consumer demand for natural textile fibres. With its distinguished editor and international team of expert contributors, the two volumes of the Handbook of natural fibres are essential texts for professionals and academics in textile science and technology. Focuses on key processing techniques for the improvement and broader application of natural fibres. Reviews processing techniques for natural fibres including silk production and the future of natural silk manufacture. Natural and Artificial Fiber-Reinforced Composites as Renewable Sources Ezgi Günay, 2018-05-02 Nano and micro sized natural fibers of vegetable origin are fully biodegradable in nature. However, the nano and micro sized synthetic fibers are fully man-made. Fiber reinforced composites composed of stiffened fiber and matrix are well known engineering materials. Fiber reinforced materials have been used in industrial production. Natural fibers can be obtained from many sources in nature such as wool, sisal, ramie, kenaf, jute, hemp, grass, flax, cotton, coir, bamboo and abaca, banana and sugarcane bagasse. Artificial fibers have been produced from more stiff materials such as glass, single walled carbon nanotubes, double walled carbon nanotubes, carbon, aramid, boron and polyethylene (PE). The cyclic reusability of materials is an important qualification in protecting the environment from waste pollution. Three important factors can be mentioned in terms of material properties in the recycling process. The first factor is the rate of cyclic usage, the second one is less material loss in each recycle and the last one is the role of waste products in the self renewal of ecosystem In engineering area the usage of waste materials has taken into account in production of composite materials The use of waste materials as particulate type composite production is also possible in the industry Fiber reinforced materials can be grouped into two categories the natural fiber reinforced materials and the artificially produced fiber reinforced materials Finally we conclude that this book consists of mainly summarized three subject headings within the two specific book subsections The first group contains the main subjects related to the natural and artificial fibers obtained by literature review second experimental and numerical studies are made in order to perform the necessary arrangements in the production stages and to establish a decision mechanism on the specification of the technical properties of the fiber reinforced composites The third group of studies focused on the use of sustainable bio composites and recycled textile wastes as reinforcements in construction
