Easterling, 2021-08-19 The monograph series Oxford Studies in Medieval Literature and Culture showcases the plurilingual and multicultural quality of medieval literature and actively seeks to promote research that not only focuses on the array of subjects medievalists now pursue in literature theology and philosophy in social political jurisprudential and intellectual history the history of art and the history of science but also that combines these subjects productively It offers innovative studies on topics that may include but are not limited to manuscript and book history languages and literatures of the global Middle Ages race and the post colonial the digital humanities media and performance music medicine the history of affect and the emotions the literature and practices of devotion the theory and history of gender and sexuality ecocriticism and the environment theories of aesthetics medievalism This volume examines Latin and vernacular writings that formed part of a flourishing culture of mystical experience in the later Middle Ages ca 1150 1400 including the ways in which visionaries within their literary milieu negotiated the tensions between personal charismatic inspiration and their allegiance to church authority It situates texts written in England within their wider geographical and intellectual context through comparative analyses with contemporary European writings A recurrent theme across all of these works is the challenge that a largely masculine and clerical culture faced in the form of the various and potentially unruly spiritualities that emerged powerfully from the twelfth century onward Representatives of these major spiritual developments including the communities that fostered them were often collaborative in their expression For example holy women including nuns recluses and others were recognized by their supporters within the church for their extraordinary spiritual graces even as these individual expressions of piety were in many cases at variance with securely orthodox religious formations These writings become eloquent witnesses to a confrontation between inner revelatory experience and the needs of the church to set limitations upon charismatic spiritualities that with few exceptions carried the seeds of religious dissent Moreover while some of the most remarkable texts at the centre of this volume were authored and or primarily read by women the intellectual and religious concerns in play cut across the familiar and all too conventional boundaries of gender and social and institutional affiliation Willing's Press Guide and Advertisers' Directory and Handbook ,2003 Handbook of Mass Spectra of Environmental Contaminants Ronald A.
