Audrey Bennett, 2006-08-31 In an age of globalization and connectivity the idea of mainstream culture has become quaint Websites magazines books and television have all honed in on ever diversifying subcultures hoping to carve out niche audiences that grow savvier and more narrowly sliced by the day Consequently the discipline of graphic design has undergone a sea change Where visual communication was once informed by a designer's creative intuition the proliferation of specialized audiences now calls for more research based design processes Designers who ignore research run the risk of becoming mere tools for communication rather than bold voices

Design Studies a collection of 27 essays from an international cast of top design researchers sets out to mend this schism between research and practice The texts presented here make a strong argument for performing rigorous experimentation and analysis Each author outlines methods in which research has aided their design whether by investigating how senior citizens react to design aesthetics how hip hop culture can influence design or how design for Third World nations is affected by cultural differences Contributors also outline inspired ways in which design educators can teach research methods to their students Finally Design Studies is rounded out by five annotated bibliographies to further aid designers in their research This comprehensive reader is the definitive reference for this new direction in graphic design and an essential resource for both students and practitioners

Green Politics is Eutopian Paul Gilk, 2009-02-26 There have been various thinkers who have attempted to explain the Earth altering even ecocidal features in modern life Jacques Ellul for instance a French intellectual became famous for his exposition of technique But technique does not adequately address the institutional context out of which technique itself arises In these essays Paul Gilk stands on the shoulders of two American scholars in particular One is world historian Lewis Mumford whose work spans fifty years of scholarship The other is classics professor Norman O Brown who brought his erudition into a systematic study of Freud From these intellectuals especially Gilk concludes that the accelerating ecocidal characteristics of globalisation are inherent manifestations of perfectionist utopian predatory institutions endemic to civilisation Our great difficulty in arriving at or accepting this conclusion is that civilisation contains no negatives it is strictly a positive construct We are therefore incapable of thinking critically about it A corrective is slowly emerging from Green intellectuals Green politics says Gilk is not utopian but eutopian It is not aimed at perfectionist immortality but rather at earthly wholeness Yet the ethical message of Green politics confronts a society saturated with utopian mythology The question is to what extent and at what speed ecological and cultural breakdown will dissolve civilised utopian certitudes and provide the requisite openings for the growth of Green eutopian culture
